To Get A Gun, Fill Out Form, Pay The Price

By DICK HOLMAN and LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writers

If you're a Nebraska resident, age 21, you can walk into one of 17 federally licensed firearms shops in Lincoln, pick out a pistol, fill out a yellow "firearms transaction record," plunk down your money and walk out armed. No waiting.

If you're 18 you can do the same and get a rifle or shotgun. There's one control on the buyer: he toys with a $5,000 fine or five years in prison if he tells a lie or intentionally writes false information in connection with the yellow form.

The U.S. Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (BATF) requires that each buyer respond to questions asking if he's a fugitive from justice, an unlawful drug user or a convicted felon, among other things.

"If you want a gun, are you going to answer yes to those questions?" said Jan Crocker, former employee of The Arsenal gunshop. "They're the biggest joke in the book."

But Dwight Thomas, agent in charge of the BATF Omaha office, says the yellow form isn't meant as a sales deterrent.

"We've arrested quite a few people" forbidden to own firearms under the 1968 federal gun control act who intentionally supplied false information to get a gun.

And the law has made it "a lot easier to convict them (criminals) of having the gun" than to convict them of using it in a crime such as forcible rape, he said.

Lincoln Police Capt. Roger LaPage said the "biggest resistance" to enforcing that law is the court's reluctance to impose "stiffer penalties" on a separate weapons offense, coupled with a charge of robbery, for example.

"If (only) the judicial system would file that additional charge," he said.

Most Owners Said Sportsmen

Most gun owners are sportsmen and intend no illegal use, Lincoln gun dealers and lawmen said, defending what they feel is a constitutional right to bear arms.

The existing gun control law "now is about as good a setup as we're going to get," La Page said. "You can't restrict people from getting guns."

Dealers do exercise a nonstatutory control — conscience. "I feel the gun dealer knows his customers pretty well," Thomas said. They also use built-in antennae on strangers in across-the-counter sales.

If a buyer appears doped-up or drunk, under obvious mental strain or simply suspicious, many Lincoln dealers said they'll refuse the sale. One even deterred a man bent on suicide from buying a weapon.

But "we stand on the opposite side of the counter, and we're supposed to prejudge this," complained James Burden of the Surplus Center.

"The monkey's on the back of the gun dealer to determine who they (buyers) are, what they are, what their intent is," he said.

1968 Law Said Good Tool

Thomas said the 1968 law "is one of the best tools that we've had." BATF now may prosecute dealers revealed by the yellow forms as repeated sources of illegal weapons or improper transactions — and it even closed down one Omaha pawnshop for not using the forms at all.

But some Lincoln dealers say the federal forms relieve them of the responsibility of making sure guns do not get in criminal hands.

"We abide by the law," said an employee at Charlie's Pawn Shop, where guns are pawned, traded and sold. "If they (buyers) have proof of identity" and satisfy the form questions, "that's all that's necessary."

Still, Thomas said, the yellow forms "have reduced the open market on illegal sales of firearms." In 1974, BATF seized 8,000 weapons across the United States, and "made 3,700 firearms cases" on violations of the '68 law and form.

Lincoln police get an abbreviated registration. It is required for handguns only, but many dealers also submit them following sales of shotguns and rifles. The forms are used to determine if felons or known criminals slipped by the dealers, and they're kept on file.

Yet Gary Jones at Gunrack is "the first to admit there are guns in the wrong hands." And Randy Acher of Acher Arms added, "I am concerned personally who is armed in the community and what use they would make of any firearms."

Stricter Controls Favored

Sgt. Paul Spahn of the Lancaster County Sheriff's Office said he'd like to see stricter registration controls "not only on initial sale of handguns, but also on follow-up sales."

Lincoln Police Lt. Jerry Smith said an original owner commonly sells a gun but doesn't transfer the registration. He'll have to have an alibi if the gun ends up used in a crime, Smith says.

Dealers may not sell automatic, sawed-off firearms or any with silencers but, they pointed out, many private sales involve illegal guns, some brought home by returning servicemen.

In 1974, guns were involved in 55 of the 881 assaults here, Lincoln police records show. Eight of 58 robbers used guns; and there were 33 arrests for concealed weapons, including knives. The sheriff's office reported 12 offenses involving guns in 1974, and one to date in 1975.

Bin Full Of Weapons

Lincoln police have "a property bin full" of seized weapons, mostly handguns, LaPage said. The illegal guns include some sawed-off shotguns and rifles (with barrels less than 18 and 16 inches, respectively) and automatic weapons such as a "grease gun" (machine gun).

Spahn said the sheriff's office confiscates mostly shotguns and small caliber rifles, but few illegal weapons. Those that can't be returned are destroyed.

Gun dealers said high quality illegal weapons get into circulation largely from thefts from military installations. And LaPage acknowledged a black market for guns exists: Two of the guns stolen in the burglary of Lincoln's Antique Arms were found on a man involved in a grocery store shootout in Omaha last month.

Lincoln dealers stay clean: "If a customer asks me how much a machine gun costs, I tell him $10,000 or 10 years," Acher said.

But Thomas of ATF was more blunt about under-the-counter dealings: "You can still get a gun quicker than you can to in and order dinner."

Shelton Says Duty Shirked

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Did the State Board of Education shirk its duty last month in its decision on a teacher complaint? And did that decision render meaningless the Nebraska Professional Practices Commission and its investigation of the charges?

Attorney Jack Higgins of Grand Island and the Shelton Public Schools principal and board of education say yes, claiming to express the sentiment of "the whole town," midway between Kearney and Grand Island.

State board member and attorney Frank Landis of Lincoln said no on both counts, defending the board action as legally sound.

But after emotional testimony by Shelton school officials, describing incidents of severe student discipline by the teacher, Eugene Dubry, and allegations he is either a "liar" or "mentally disturbed," the state board members polarized.

Rehearing Asked

Max Dreier, executive director of the Nebraska Professional Practices Commission (a peer review panel that investigates teacher complaints), asked the board to rehear the Dubry case.

The board last month, after a public hearing, decided the evidence in the investigation record did not warrant the commission recommendation: Suspend Dubry's teaching certificate, with renewal allowed only after a psychiatrist's examination indicates the 20-year teacher's fitness to resume teaching.

The board instead sought to reprimand Dubry, on the premise the alleged violations were insufficient to jeopardize his livelihood. But the board legally can only revoke or suspend a teaching certificate, or dismiss the complaint.

Thus, members returned the Dubry case to the commission, which can reprimand teachers. On an 8-2 vote, the commission returned to the board its original recommendation, excluding the requirement for psychiatric tests.

Should Disband

Shelton Board of Education President Dwight Gangwish said if the board "can't take the recommendation," based on several hundred hours of on-site interviews, then "really, we should disband" the commission.

Attorney Higgins, who also represents the Nebraska State School Boards Association, called the commission work a "meaningless process," if the board reverses its recommendations.

Higgins said he supports the commission peer review rather than outright teacher firings by school boards, but "Do we have to wait till somebody is disabled for life before we bring a case before the commission?"

He said the "whole town of Shelton was up in arms" about Dubry's treatment of gifted children and the board ruling.

Landis said the board could only act on the evidence offered, which showed no mental problems or "shocking" corporal punishment.

Higgins said "the record does not show" the "fear" in the children's eyes, or the "anguish" in their voices about Dubry's abusive actions, only four of which were cited.

Dubry May Appeal

Landis said the board nevertheless found Dubry culpable, and noted Dubry may appeal to district court and to the State Supreme Court.

No state board member, Landis said, "would like to be jockeyed into a position where he's a rubber stamp" for the commission, which shouldn't be "the final arbiter." And he opposed Dreier's request the board rehear the case, unless new evidence were introduced.

Higgins admitted there is no new evidence.

Not Teaching

Dubry was rehired but did not teach this year. If he were only reprimanded and rehired elsewhere, Higgins said, "you just move your problems to another district."

Principal Reva Headley said Dubry denied actions that she had witnessed, adding he was either a liar or "emotionally disturbed" and blocked the actions from his memory.

Board members resisted a Landis motion to table the case indefinitely. But the initiative to reconsider it on April 11 was left to Dubry or his attorney.

The board also approved distribution of new rules and regulations for Nebraska schools, designed to strengthen required standards, particularly in about 900 of Nebraska's small, substandard elementary school districts.

Portuguese Government Denies Cabinet Resigning

Lisbon, Portugal (AP) — Two members of the Portuguese provisional government said Sunday the cabinet had resigned in preparation for a reshuffle of leadership that is expected to show a growing Communist influence.

The government officially denied the report.

The two ministers said cabinet members offered their resignations Saturday, leaving it up to Premier Vasco Gonçalves to decide which ones to accept.

The reshuffle was implied last week when the ruling Assembly of the Armed Forces Movement, AFM, gave Gonçalves the go-ahead after a vote of approval "to act more firmly in the spirit of the AFM."

The information ministry said the report by The Associated Press of "the resignation of the government is formally denied." It continued by saying "for the moment it is unknown in what terms the Associated Press report was phrased."

It was likely that Mario Soares, leader of the Socialist party and a strong supporter of the North Atlantic alliance, would be replaced as foreign minister in the new cabinet, one of the ministers who resigned told the Associated Press on Sunday.

This followed a government report that Portugal was considering a Soviet request for port facilities for Russia's Atlantic merchant fleet. Meantime, in South America, exiled Portuguese officers said they tried to topple the leftist Portuguese government last week because they had learned of Communist-instigated plans to slaughter 1,500 civilians and military men. A statement by a spokesman for the 15 officers who flew into exile in Brazil with Gen. Antonio de Spínola was handed to an Associated Press newsmen on the plane that carried Spínola.

A senior official in Lisbon said the allegations were completely untrue, saying the government and Communist party had not collaborated in such a plot. The statement, for which there was no independent confirmation, was the only explanation given by Spínola and his officers regarding the March 11 revolt, which fizzled for lack of support.

The handwritten statement said the Communist party and its allies had turned over to Premier Vasco Gonçalves a list of 500 top officers, including Spínola, and 1,000 civilians "linked to the economy of the nation and to the present political system" who would be "eliminated" during the night of March 12-13 by an operation with the code name "Big Easter Killing."

The statement said President Francisco de Costa Gomes gave the go-ahead for the operation, and that upon learning of it from "informed sources," the officers launched the revolt. Spínola apparently joined the group only on the afternoon of March 10.

He became president of Portugal after the military toppled the 45-year dictatorship last April but was in turn ousted by left-wing officers in September.

Washington's Hostess Mesta Dead At 85

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Perle Mesta, who reigned for more than half a century as Washington's "hostess with the mostest," died Sunday night. She was 85.

Mrs. Mesta, who also served as ambassador to Luxembourg from 1949 to 1953 and was an accomplished musician, died of what was initially diagnosed as heart failure, according to Hallie Ward, a close friend of Mrs. Mesta.

Mrs. Mesta earned her reputation as a hostess during the Harry S. Truman administration, learned to cook from President Dwight D. Eisenhower and sold a house to President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Plane Crash Toll Said 52

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — At least 52 persons perished Sunday when a passenger plane operated by the Argentine air force crashed into a mountain peak near the Andean resort of Bariloche, authorities reported.

They said the turboprop Fokker 26 carrying 47 passengers and a crew of five smashed into Pichen-Leufu Peak as it approached Bariloche after a flight from the nearby El Palomar air force base.

The plane was owned by the state airline LADE, which is operated by the air force on short-range domestic flights linking various military installations in southern Argentina that are not serviced by commercial airlines.

It was not known if any foreigners were aboard the craft. Bariloche airport officials gave no immediate information on the possible cause of the crash. The air force said a communique would be issued Monday morning.

Bariloche, 1,200 miles southwest of Buenos Aires, is Argentina's winter ski area and is popular for its lakes and fishing in the summer season.

Air force spokesmen said it was believed that all passengers were Argentine military men and their relatives.

Kissinger To Present Israeli Views To Egypt

Jerusalem (AP)—Israel gave Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger undisclosed "proposals and assessments" Sunday to take to Egypt in his drive for a Sinai settlement.

The four-hour meeting with the Israeli negotiating team was the longest single session Kissinger has held here in his 11 days of shuttle diplomacy.

But Foreign Minister Yigal Allon said it was not enough and another session was set for Monday before Kissinger's departure for Aswan, Egypt, and consultations with President Anwar Sadat.

Kissinger and Allon spoke to newsmen outside the office of Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin. Speaking in Hebrew, Allon said he and his co-negotiators, Rabin and Defense Minister Shimon Peres, gave Kissinger "proposals." Kissinger said, however, that he had received "ideas."

Allon and Kissinger both said the talks were held in "very great detail in a very constructive spirit."

Asked if he had made any proposals of his own, Kissinger replied, "No."

Earlier, the cabinet decided to empower the negotiators to continue talks based on previous cabinet decisions. It indicated the Israelis are not yet willing to discuss a withdrawal from the Abu Rudeis oilfields and the strategic Mitla and Gidi passes in the Sinai.

Although Rabin had offered to trade the passes and oilfields for an Egyptian renunciation of war, no cabinet decision had approved Rabin's offer.

The government's only published decision so far has been to offer a lesser pullback of 20 to 30 miles in return for some kind of Egyptian commitment toward peace.

In Cairo a government spokesman said there would be no bargaining on Egypt's latest ideas for a second stage Israeli withdrawal from Sinai. The undisclosed Egyptian proposals, carried to Jerusalem by Kissinger, have been termed by Israel as "insufficient and even unsatisfactory" in certain areas.

"The ideas constitute a firm Egyptian position which is not subject to maneuvers or outbidding," the Egyptian spokesman said.

Flying here from Jordan, a senior American official said Kissinger had not even begun to "break the back" of the negotiations. He is in his 12th day of mediation.

Kissinger met twice in Amman, Jordan, with King Hussein. In the U.S. view, Hussein expects ultimately to represent the Palestinians in final peace talks. This role was given unanimously to the Palestine Liberation Organization by the Arab heads of state at a summit meeting in Rabat, Morocco last fall.

A group of right-wing demonstrators gathered in Jerusalem to oppose any additional Israeli withdrawals from the Sinai. They met in front of Rabin's office and shouted, "Kissinger go home!" and "Kissinger go to hell!"

Some of the demonstrators from the Herut opposition party stripped to swimsuits despite the cold and said it was to show that Israel would be pushed into the sea if it made further withdrawals.

CHRISTINA ... principal inheritor.

Heiress Termed Business-Minded

PARIS (AP) — Christina Onassis, 24-year-old principal inheritor of her father's immense wealth, is said to have a good mind for business and growing maturity, qualities that will be desperately needed to take firm control of the shipping empire which is now hers.

She is expected to turn to her companion, Peter Goulandris, the heir to another Greek shipping family fortune, for help in running her father's empire. Onassis, according to some sources, beseeched Christina and Goulandris, who is 30, to marry and create an alliance between the two clans.

Until now, Christina's contact with the ships that turned her father into one of the world's richest men has been limited mainly to swinging champagne bottles against the bows of new Onassis tankers. Her life has been easy and rich, but unstable and less than happy.

Her parents — Christina's mother was Tina Livos — were divorced 10 years after she was born in the United States as an American citizen. Her mother's sister died an apparent suicide, her brother Alexander perished in a plane crash, and her mother, by then 45 and remarried to Stavros Niarchos, died suddenly last year. Aside from a number of aunts, Christina is the last of the family.

Christina was married before she was 21 to a California real estate man, Joseph Bolker. The marriage lasted only nine months, but Onassis reacted angrily to it, modifying a trust fund that he had set up for his daughter. Later, the rift was healed.

Last year, Niarchos asserted that Christina tried to kill herself. It was part of the bitter aftermath of Christina's mother's death in which the heiress, amid reports that her mother had attempted suicide in London, asked for an autopsy. The autopsy said a lung edema of unknown origin was the cause of death. Niarchos, denying that

Widow, Daughter Make Ready To Bury Onassis

PARIS (AP) — Aristotle Onassis' widow Jacqueline and his only surviving child Christina made preparations Sunday to bury him beside a 200-year-old chapel on Scorpios, his island in the Ionian Sea.

Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, 45, and widowed for the second time, spent 15 minutes alone with the body as it lay on a table in the nondenominational chapel of the American Hospital in suburban Neuilly, sources said. They said there was a Greek Orthodox icon on Onassis' chest.

Mrs. Onassis, wearing a black coat and dark stockings as she did when she arrived from New York early in the day, went through the bronze doors of the chapel alone and remained undisturbed inside, the informants said. Flowers had been placed there before her arrival.

Earlier, a member of the Onassis household said Mrs. Onassis "is bearing up well and is okay."

The household member — who identified herself as Mrs. Sirros, "a long-time governess" — said it was 24-year-old Christina Onassis who had given the orders for the funeral arrangements for the rich and powerful Greek shipping magnate.

Officials at American Hospital said Christina, who was born to Onassis and his first wife, Tina Livos, kept a death vigil as her 69-year-old father weakened Friday night, then died Saturday.

The hospital attributed death to a broncho-pulmonary infection and said he did not respond to antibiotics. Onassis, who entered the hospital Feb. 6, also suffered from myasthenia gravis, a muscle-weakening disease, and had his gall bladder removed.

Mrs. Sirros was the only person who answered the phone all day in Onassis' luxury apartment near the Arch of Triumph. She said Jacqueline had been in the apartment since her arrival. She also said Christina spent most of the day resting.

"We don't know yet when the funeral will be, but it will be in Scorpios, of course," Mrs. Sirros said. Scorpios is Onassis' private island off Greece where he and Jacqueline were married and where his son Alexander is buried.

"These were Mr. Onassis' long-time wishes," Mrs. Sirros added. "Alexander is buried on one side of a 200-year-old chapel to the Virgin Mary. Mr. Onassis wanted to be buried on the other side of the chapel."

In Athens, a source close to the family said burial would be Tuesday. He said the body would be flown from Paris to Actium, on Greece's west coast, Monday night and transported on the yacht Christina to Scorpios. The service will be attended only by close members of the family who will leave Athens for Scorpios late Monday after Onassis' widow and daughter arrive from Paris, he added.

The death of Alexander at age 24 in a 1973 private plane accident crushed Onassis and, family friends said, contributed to his declining health.

Mrs. Sirros said the funeral orders from Christina were being carried out by Costa Conialides, Onassis' cousin.

Mrs. Onassis arrived in Paris shortly after dawn and made no statement to reporters at the airport. She remained in a VIP lounge while entry formalities were completed, then drove straight into the city accompanied by an unidentified man.

Mrs. Onassis, who was married to Onassis for 6½ years, joined him in Paris when he flew here for treatment, but she was in New York when he died.

Jackie To Get Art, Nearly $120 Million

ATHENS (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis will get close to $120 million from the estate of the Greek magnate, most of his valuable paintings, and a trust fund of $15 million each for her two children, John Kennedy Jr. and Caroline, family sources said.

Aristotle Onassis' collection of famous paintings by Gauguin, El Greco, Van Gogh and Picasso is conservatively estimated by art dealers in Athens at $20 million. One art dealer here said several are already on display at her Fifth Avenue apartment in New York.

Jacqueline married Onassis in 1968 on Scorpios, his island in the Ionian Sea. Reliable sources said before the marriage that Onassis had made arrangements to provide her with a lifetime income plus cash upon his death.

It was not immediately known who will inherit Scorpios or Onassis' 325-foot luxury yacht Christina, named after his daughter.

The island, in the shape of a scorpion as seen from the air, was grazing land for sheep until Onassis bought it 15 years ago. He turned it into a south seas paradise by planting rare trees and shrubs and building a road around its fringes.

N.Y. Times Summary

Minister Threatened

Washington — A newly released group of documents by the Federal Bureau of Investigation disclosed that the agency had sent a spurious letter threatening a black Baptist minister with the intention of frightening him into ceasing his civil rights work in Mississippi and returning to the North. The documents, which reflect part of the FBI's controversial cointelpro operation directed at "black nationalist" groups, were made public by the bureau in response to a lawsuit brought by the minister, Donald W. Jackson, who is now known as Muhammad Kenyatta.

Joint Beliefs Written

New York — An extensive statement of agreed-upon beliefs, the first document of its kind written jointly by Catholics and Protestants since the 16th Century Reformation will be available in the United States this spring. It is called "The Common Catechism: A Book of Christian Faith," and is regarded as a landmark in ecumenical theology. A German version has circulated widely in Europe for the last two years. It is being published in English for the first time by the Seabury Press of the Episcopal Church.

Six Escape Cell

New York — Six prisoners awaiting trial on bank robbery charges escaped from federal detention headquarters in lower Manhattan by cutting through wiremesh screens, breaking through a skylight and then climbing down a ladder made from bedsheets. The warden said that it did not appear that the men had received help from outside or inside the prison.

Hospital Strike Slated

New York — Interns and resident physicians reaffirmed their determination to strike 23 hospitals at 7 a.m. Monday. Meanwhile, federal mediators continued the around-the-clock efforts to avert the strike. The interns and physicians belong to the Committee of Interns and Residents, which has 3,000 members. They are seeking a reduction in the number of hours they are required to work and a grievance procedure to protect them from being used inordinately in what they describe as "out-of-title" work — substituting for nurses, laboratory technicians and other hospital personnel.

French Envoy Lodges Protest In Murder Of Correspondent

Saigon, South Vietnam (AP) — French Ambassador Jean Marie Merillon lodged a protest Sunday with the South Vietnamese government over the shooting death of correspondent Paul Leandri in the national police headquarters compound.

The envoy asked for an official investigation, prosecution and sanctions against those responsible, and compensation to the family.

Merillon, acting on orders from Paris, filed protests both with the South Vietnamese Foreign Ministry and the office of the presidency.

Meanwhile, Maj. Nguyen Van Mai, chief of the national police immigration office, visited Leandri's widow to return the newsman's personal belongings.

Witnesses in the room said Mai apologized to Mrs. Leandri and expressed his deepest regrets over her husband's death. He asked her whether she would seek prosecution and, according to the witnesses, she replied: "Yes, for murder."

Leandri, 37, deputy bureau chief of Agence France Presse, was shot and killed Friday night at the national police headquarters when he tried to leave the compound where he had been summoned for interrogation about a dispatch he had written, according to an official police communique.

A single bullet struck him in the left side of the head just above the ear. Police claimed that Leandri became belligerent when they tried to question him about the source of his dispatch on the battle for the central highlands city of Ban Me Thuot.

The communique claimed he jumped into his car and sped away after police threatened him with arrest for allegedly damaging office equipment when he became angered during interrogation.

The communique said two warning shots were fired in the air and three shots were fired at the tires of his car. Other sources said more than three shots were apparently fired at his car and that there were bullet holes in the front, rear and windows of the vehicle.

Sources said the only damage observed after the incident was broken glass covering a desk. The police communique claimed that furniture and office equipment had been destroyed by Leandri.

Flooding Forces Hundreds To Flee Tombigbee River

By The Associated Press

Hundreds of residents were evacuated from along the rain-swollen Tombigbee River in Mississippi on Sunday as rains continued to saturate the Southeast.

Authorities said several hundred residents of Columbus, Miss., left their homes to escape the waters of the rising Tombigbee, which flowed man-high through some riverfront streets.

"We're not having any trouble moving people out," said Gertrude Price of the Lowndes County Civil Defense. "After that 1973 situation, they're a little gun-shy."

In 1973, a 42.2-foot crest caused extensive evacuations and damage.

The Tombigbee stood at 37 feet Sunday, eight feet above its banks. A crest of 38 or 39 feet was forecast for Monday.

More flooding is expected along the Tombigbee as the crest moves downstream into Alabama. The high water resulted from several inches of rain which fell in north Mississippi last week.

Elsewhere in the Southeast, there were reports of major flooding in Tennessee and North Carolina, with minor occurrences in Georgia and Louisiana. The rains began a week ago and have resulted in millions of dollars of damage to businesses, roads and bridges.

Poll: Foreign Policy Power Shift Favored

By LOUIS HARRIS
A 73% majority of Americans feels that Secretary of State Henry Kissinger primarily determines foreign policy, and only 30% want to see his power increased.

A 44% plurality wants President Ford to take a more active part in foreign policy. Only 48% believe that Ford has a "very important" role in foreign-policy decisions.

The implications of these results are highly significant, considering Secretary Kissinger's recent charge that Congress has "hampered" his freedom to make several key decisions, particularly when Congress decided to cut off all military aid to Turkey until the Turks agree to a settlement in the Cyprus dispute.

Americans clearly want to increase the role of Congress in foreign-policy decisions. Thirty-eight per cent feel that "Congress is playing too weak a role in foreign policy," compared to 10% who believe the House and Senate are "playing too strong a role."

The Harris Survey recently asked a cross section of 1,513 adults.

"How important a role do you think (read list) currently plays in determining the foreign policy of the United States — a very important role, a somewhat important role or hardly an important role at all?"

"Do you feel the role of (read list) should be more important than it is now, less important or about as important as it is now?"

HOW IMPORTANT A ROLE KEY ELEMENTS PLAY NOW AND SHOULD PLAY IN DETERMINING U.S. FOREIGN POLICY

national affairs, even though 75% support his policy decisions.

The people also oppose increasing the power of American business, the military and the CIA in foreign policy.

If Secretary Kissinger continues to resist sharing the responsibilities of foreign policy with Congress, he is likely to meet with public opposition. The domestic activities of the CIA, which represent an increase in power and with which Kissinger may have been involved, could further lessen his popularity.

The amount of power that Dr. Kissinger continues to wield in foreign policy could very well be determined by the outcome of his dealings with Russia and China, and his ability to establish a temporary settlement between Egypt and Israel.

Safety Agency Plans Standards For Playgrounds

(c) Newhouse News Service
Washington — The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), hoping to reduce some of the unnecessary scrapes, bumps and bruises of childhood, plans to get mandatory safety standards for seesaws, slides, swings and other equipment on public playgrounds.

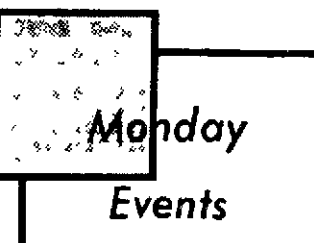

The commission estimates that in 1973, more than 55,000 people were hurt seriously enough on playground equipment to warrant emergency room treatment.

Playground fights or accidents caused by clumsy kids aren't covered by the commission guidelines, but just about anything else is

San Francisco — Here's St. Patrick's Day again. Since we've got a resident Irish writer, I'll yield the floor and say no more about it.

Poll: Foreign Policy Power Shift Favored

By LOUIS HARRIS
A 73% majority of Americans feels that Secretary of State Henry Kissinger primarily determines foreign policy, and only 30% want to see his power increased.

A 44% plurality wants President Ford to take a more active part in foreign policy. Only 49% believe that Ford has a "very important" role in foreign-policy decisions.

The implications of these results are highly significant, considering Secretary Kissinger's recent charge that Congress has "hampered" his freedom to make several key decisions, particularly when Congress decided to cut off all military aid to Turkey until the Turks agree to a settlement in the Cyprus dispute.

Americans clearly want to increase the role of Congress in foreign-policy decisions. Thirty-eight per cent feel that "Congress is playing too weak a role in foreign policy," compared to 10% who believe the House and Senate are "playing too strong a role."

The Harris Survey recently asked a cross section of 1,513 adults:

"How important a role do you think (read list) currently plays in determining the foreign policy of the United States — a very important role, a somewhat important role or hardly an important role at all?"

"Do you feel the role of (read list) should be more important than it is now, less important or about as important as it is now?"

HOW IMPORTANT A ROLE KEY ELEMENTS PLAY NOW AND SHOULD PLAY IN DETERMINING U.S. FOREIGN POLICY

	More Important	About the Same	Less Important
Sec. of State Kissinger	73	20	7
President Ford	49	44	7
American business	42	41	17
The Congress	39	49	12
The State Department	38	39	23
The military	36	39	25
The United Nations	28	41	31
The CIA	28	15	57
Labor unions	24	17	59
Public opinion	19	58	23

Americans clearly want the secretary of state to share more of his responsibility in foreign policy with the President, Congress and the public. They also imply that Kissinger has had too much free rein in international affairs, even though 75% support his policy decisions.

The people also oppose increasing the power of American business, the military and the CIA in foreign policy.

If Secretary Kissinger continues to resist sharing the responsibilities of foreign policy with Congress, he is likely to meet with public opposition. The domestic activities of the CIA, which represent an increase in power and with which Kissinger may have been involved, could further lessen his popularity.

The amount of power that Dr. Kissinger continues to wield in foreign policy could very well be determined by the outcome of his dealings with Russia and China, and his ability to establish a temporary settlement between Egypt and Israel.

Tobacco Burned At Record Rate

It was somewhat amusing to read that a spokeswoman for the tobacco industry said in Nebraska the other day that as yet there hasn't been enough study to determine whether smoking is injurious to the health. That is rather like the obstinate mathematician still searching for an answer other than four for the addition of two and two.

Or, taking another tack, wrapping tobacco in a cloak of innocence and purity is like claiming that firearms are harmless. Guns don't kill, they say, people do.

Sure, and people smoke cigarettes. And guns or cigarettes in the hands of people are both capable of causing trouble.

We don't imagine there is a physician in this world — other than, perhaps, someone married into a fine old tobacco family — who has nice things to say about smoking. Every type of practitioner of the healing arts from heart specialist to dental hygienist will tell you to stop smoking. It is linked to a host of ailments from high blood pressure to cancer to ugly stains.

A Threat To Park Land

In what should be by now a familiar scenario, a fourth municipal courtroom would take shape in the present quarters of the city personnel department. That department would relocate in space on the county side of the County-City Building now occupied by a state driver's licensing station. That agency would find space on a long-term but "temporary" basis on ground within Antelope Park near the Muni swimming pool.

The City Parks and Recreation Board last week recommended that the city allow the county to put a temporary office in Antelope Park for only two years. Two years, says County Board Chairman Jan Gauger, is as good as saying "no." She says that the county's investment in any type of structure to house the driver's licensing office at the park would pay off only if the county is allowed to use the site for four to five years. "They say they need four to five

But people are smoking more cigarettes than ever before, the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) says. Last year, Americans smoked a record 602.2 billion cigarettes.

The public continues to puff away in the face of overwhelming evidence and good advice.

The FTC recommends a stronger warning on cigarette and little cigar packs and a stepped-up public service campaign to point out the dangers of smoking.

Warnings, we fear, are lost in clouds of smoke and the cacophony of hacking coughs. Besides, there's a mulish streak in people which makes them ignore their better judgment. Only the young, who are more apt to be impressed by convincing argument, and who perhaps have not taken up the more traditional forms of smoking, are likely to be swayed by public service programs telling of the dangers of tobacco.

Most people won't quit unless they are frightened out of their wits by the realization of what their habits might do to them and in many cases it is already too late.

years — we'll give them four to five years," says Mayor Schwartzkopf. "As long as they (the county) understand it's temporary, we'll go along."

Anything four to five years "temporary" is permanent in our book. We think the mayor will be absolutely wrong if he goes against the advice of the park board.

The board is properly concerned that park land should be reserved for park purposes and that's why a two-year limit was recommended. The board's concern is not groundless.

The city and county governments thus far have shown that the temptation to carve up the inside of the County-City Building and to find makeshift solutions for space problems is irresistible.

It is critically important that the temptation to use public park land for other governmental purposes be resisted at all costs.

W.I.N.—R.I.P.

There apparently wasn't any public service, or private rites for that matter, for WIN, which passed away some ten days ago.

WIN (Whip Inflation Now) was buried quickly with as few words said over its body as possible. The grieving father doubtless wanted it that way.

The ineffectiveness of WIN strikes a blow at the concept of volunteerism. Although, volunteerism did work somewhat throughout the Arab oil embargo.

We are not intending to be unkind to President Ford and his sincere effort in our suggesting that naive gimmickery will not cure the nation's economic ills.

It might have worked in Andy Hardy America — but this is not, unfortunately, that more simple time. This is a more sophisticated, cynical, selfish era in which people have been spoiled to the extent that it is difficult for them to individually practice restraint.

We're not saying Americans can't pull together for a cause. It just seems like they will have to be pushed up against the edge of the abyss to do it.

ON TARGET

By DON WALTON

Don't be too surprised if Nebraska goes to war with England today.

Or if the newest state assistance program is a foreign aid plan for Ireland.

Or if the state insect (the bee) is followed by a state color (green) or a state gnome (the leuprechtman).

For it is that today is St. Patrick's Day, and the Nebraska Legislature meets today . . . and it has an inordinate number of members with Irish blood flowing through their veins.

Their names would do any legislative body in Ireland proud . . . names like Cavanaugh and Fitzgerald and Kelly and Kennedy and Mahoney and Murphy.

If they could get some favorable parliamentary rulings out of Lt. Gov. Gerald O'Whelan, they might just have enough votes to have their way.

So, hang on, folks. The Irishmen are on the loose today.

Seldom, I think, does the Legislature look as bad as it does when a wholesale number of senators abandon a bill in the face of a gubernatorial veto.

That happened last week. It doesn't really matter what the bill was (an education measure which could lead to a requirement for four-year college degrees for all public school teachers) or whether the governor was right or wrong.

What is disturbing is the fact that a dozen senators who voted to enact the bill on Feb. 27 (when it was approved on a 35-5 vote) voted to sustain the governor's veto on March 12.

That has happened before, and it raises some questions:

—were those guys trying to land on both sides of the issue for political gain, or to avoid political damage?

—were those guys admitting they didn't know what they were doing the first time they voted, that they had reached their initial decision without studying or understanding the issue?

—were those guys willing to side with the governor, no matter which way he chose to go, thus abandoning their own independent responsibility to their constituents?

—did those guys not care at all whether the bill passed or failed?

Some strong, independent, industrious and able senators were among the dozen — so there must be some other explanation for their action. More information, they might tell you.

In any event, I think that sort of shifting shows the Legislature at its weakest.

Most of the senators try to gain an understanding of the hundreds of bills they must consider. In reaching their conclusions, senators must make thousands of decisions (that's literal, not figurative) over the term of a legislative session.

But when the time comes for a final reading determination, citizens hope their senator knows what he (or she) is doing.

When a dozen senators abandon their position in the face of a gubernatorial veto, citizens have a right to wonder.

The fact is that the Legislature has improved its record of retreating in the face of a veto.

Last week's example ran contrary to the record established in the fading days of the 1974 legislative session.

Last year, senators stood their ground on school aid and on their state budget decisions despite gubernatorial vetoes.

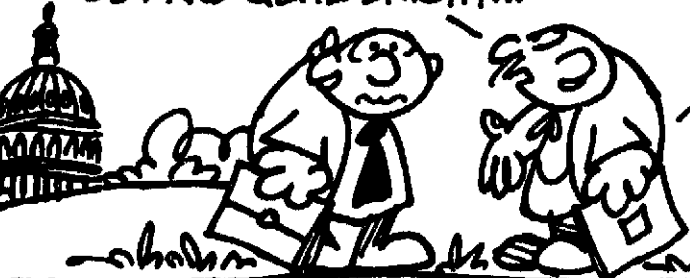

This year's record on legislative stamina is yet to be written.

JAMES RESTON

NEW YORK — Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin has discovered that the National Science Foundation is spending $83,000 a year out of the Federal Treasury to find out why people fall in love, and he wants it stopped. Not the love but the spending. "Biggest boondoggle of the year," he says. "I don't want the answer."

This is not like our old buddy, Bill. He is normally a sensible and even a romantic type himself, a physical fitness buff who jogs to the Capitol in the morning and spends most of his time there digging out the facts, but he wants romantic love to remain a mystery.

Senators seem to be in a peremptory mood these days. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania tells Lon Nol of Cambodia to get out. Teddy Kennedy tells Cappy Weinberger of HEW to get lost. Jim Buckley of New York advises President Ford to turn right. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota tells Arthur Burns of the Fed to give us more dollars, more housing, more jobs or go home. But I digress.

Love is a different question. The senator from Wisconsin, Proxmire, is a modern man who believes that government should help people with their problems. He is a land-grant college man, and will vote any amount of money on the dangers of natural selection in animals, and for basic research on how to get the best bulls and cows together on the farms of Wisconsin, but he is against basic research on the alarming divorce rate or break-up of the human family in America. You have to assume he was kidding.

The National Center for Health Statistics of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has just reported that there were 970,000 divorces in the United States in 1974, compared to 913,000 in 1973, and 479,000 in 1965. The rate of population growth in the United States is down over the last decade, but in 1974, the excess of births over deaths was still up by over a million and a quarter, while the rate of marriages was down and the rate of divorces was up.

All the National Science Foundation was suggesting, and the federal government was financing, was a modest inquiry into these statistics. Why this increase in divorce, this decrease in marriage, this disbelief in the family as the basis of American life?

Were the expectations of married life unreasonably high? Were the assumptions of courtship, and of economic security — an enduring reality or a trap? What was romantic love, anyway — a basis for secure family and national life, or a dangerous illusion?

With these questions in mind, the National Science Foundation was given $83,000 to see whether it could come up with any answers or at least clues, and the burden of research fell on Ellen Berscheid, a professor of psychology at the University of Minnesota.

When Proxmire spotted this $83,000 item as chairman of the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee in charge of the National Science Foundation's budget, he almost blew his new hair-do. "Get out of the love-racket," he told the foundation.

Obviously, he had a point. The reasons why people fall in love, or think they do, will always be a mystery, and many people like Proxmire probably "don't want the answer," but if the sociologists and psychologists can get even a suggestion of the answer to our pattern of romantic love, marriage, disillusion, divorce — and the children left behind — it could be the best investment of federal money since Jefferson made the Louisiana purchase.

"Right on top of the things we don't want to know," Proxmire

told the Washington Post, "is why a man falls in love with a woman and vice versa." But Professor Berscheid at Minnesota thinks the illusions about romantic love, the confusion between infatuation and enduring love, are precisely what we have to understand if we are to deal with the consequences of the pill, the rejection of marriage, broken marriages, she says, and broken families, which in turn contribute to the disorientation, instability, disunity and even violence of American life. Therefore, she concludes, research on how and why young men and women marry is fundamental, even if the researchers never find the answers.

Professor Berscheid hasn't gone far enough into her inquiries to pronounce or even indicate conclusions. But she does think she has found an illusion among the young: namely, that in married life, love and hostility are opposites; that if there is love, there cannot be hate or even hostility, whereas her researches so far suggest that love and hostility, sometimes even hate, often exist together.

Proxmire, who has had some experience with life, would probably agree, but he saw what seemed to be an obvious boondoggle in the budget, and he attacked it as a budgetary swindle. It was good politics but probably had history, for the world is being transformed now, not by Ford, Wilson, Giscard, Brezhnev, Chou En-Lai and the other political leaders, but by the fertility of the human mind and body, by the creation of life at the beginning and the prolongation of life at the end.

The politicians don't know how to find the jobs, schools, houses, food, fuel and transportation to deal with this torrent of people and problems. Therefore, the social scientists have to think about why new life is created in the first place, where the pill, and the concepts of romantic love, easy sex, marriage and divorce fit into the life of the nation.

"I don't want to know the answer," about why people fall in love, marry or don't, Proxmire says in what was probably one of his few careless public statements, but a lot of other people want the answers studied, even if "romantic love" and why people marry remain a mystery, as they undoubtedly will.

Wonderful Neighbor

Lincoln, Neb. We have a good neighbor who lives at 7127 Platte Ave. by the name of Richard Rhoades. When we have a snow, this good neighbor goes for blocks and blocks with his snow-blower and cleans off so many neighbors' sidewalks. We all think he is wonderful.

KENNETH & JANET MCCracken

The Pot And The Kettle

Lincoln, Neb. A note in The Star regarding Column A on lobbyists stated that some lobbyists spend money on senators. How can this be reconciled with the big legislative investigation of the PSC and football tickets?

It is very probable that some football tickets reached this august body, also.

It looks like a case of the pot's calling the kettle black. G.P.

The Promised 'Peace'

Lincoln, Neb. Those of us who fled to freedom know from our own experience what "peace" and "tranquility" mean in communist territories.

These days we hear that there will be no more agony and that surrender will bring peace. Yes, the "peace" of the cemetery after terrible bloodshed.

We have read how the Cambodians and South Vietnamese have tried to defend house by house, and we know what will follow.

The front line might soon come as close to us as San Francisco or Los Angeles.

Praise for Boosalis

Lincoln, Neb. For the past two years, Helen Boosalis has demonstrated strong, efficient, and unbiased leadership as chairperson of the city council.

On occasions when I have spoken with her about civic concerns, I have been impressed by her courtesy and objectivity.

Mrs. Boosalis has worked in city government for over sixteen years. We are fortunate to have a person with her experience as a candidate for mayor.

SUSAN SAMSON

Give Us The Truth

Lincoln, Neb. So much has been said about our penal complex, but why can't we learn the truth? The recent suicides happened in the Adjustment Center (hole). Could these have been prevented? Is it right that men be locked up in the hole for five months now?

Should not every man be entitled to medical help? These men have no choice but to take what they can get. If they could have gotten it, a lot of men would be alive now.

One question again — why can't we know the truth? N.W.

No Tax Cut for 'Little Guys'

Lincoln, Neb. To all the moderate and middle-income people who vote Democratic because they think they are for the "little guy," I hope they noticed that the House of Representatives voted that if one itemizes his deductions for taxes, medical expenses, etc., he will NOT get a tax cut. He will get it only if he doesn't itemize his deductions.

Evidently the Democrats think we are "little guys" who do NOT need the tax cut they promised us before the November elections.

I feel as if we had been taken.

Helen Boosalis — The Classical Candidate

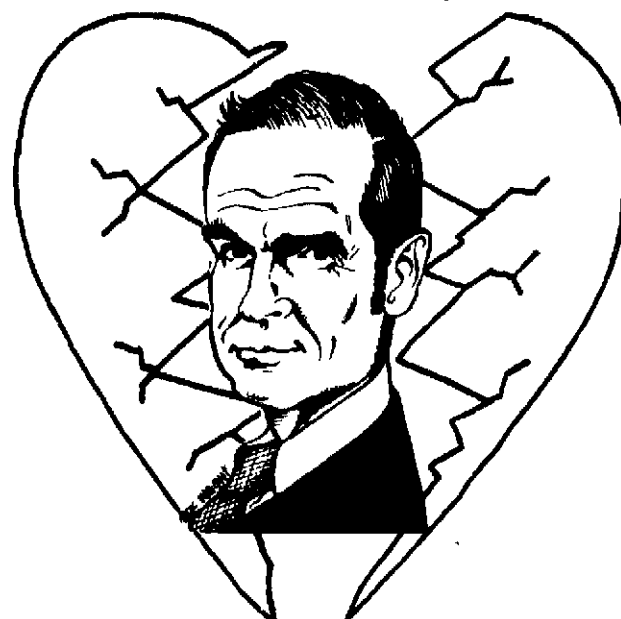

Lincoln, Neb. Helen Boosalis has once again placed the well-being of Lincoln ahead of what must certainly be easier and less demanding from her. She has given up what would certainly have been an easy campaign for her city council seat in order to run for mayor.

Helen is the most able challenger of an incumbent that we are likely to see in city elections for a long time. Her years of dedicated service on the city council have gained her wide respect as an expert on this city. She has a reputation for being well informed. She is tied to no special interests, but rather she is supportive of all community needs.

chology at the University of Minnesota.

When Proxmire spotted this $83,000 item as chairman of the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee in charge of the National Science Foundation's budget, he almost blew his new hair-do. "Get out of the love-racket," he told the foundation.

Obviously, he had a point. The reasons why people fall in love, or think they do, will always be a mystery, and many people like Proxmire probably "don't want the answer," but if the sociologists and psychologists can get even a suggestion of the answer to our pattern of romantic love, marriage, disillusion, divorce — and the children left behind — it could be the best investment of federal money since Jefferson made the Louisiana purchase.

"Right on top of the things we don't want to know," Proxmire

told the Washington Post, "is why a man falls in love with a woman and vice versa." But Professor Berscheid at Minnesota thinks the illusions about romantic love, the confusion between infatuation and enduring love, are precisely what we have to understand if we are to deal with the consequences of the pill, the rejection of marriage, broken marriages, she says, and broken families, which in turn contribute to the disorientation, instability, disunity and even violence of American life. Therefore, she concludes, research on how and why young men and women marry is fundamental, even if the researchers never find the answers.

Professor Berscheid hasn't gone far enough into her inquiries to pronounce or even indicate conclusions. But she does think she has found an illusion among the young: namely, that in married life, love and hostility are opposites; that if there is love, there cannot be hate or even hostility, whereas her researches so far suggest that love and hostility, sometimes even hate, often exist together.

Proxmire, who has had some experience with life, would probably agree, but he saw what seemed to be an obvious boondoggle in the budget, and he attacked it as a budgetary swindle. It was good politics but probably had history, for the world is being transformed now, not by Ford, Wilson, Giscard, Brezhnev, Chou En-Lai and the other political leaders, but by the fertility of the human mind and body, by the creation of life at the beginning and the prolongation of life at the end.

The politicians don't know how to find the jobs, schools, houses, food, fuel and transportation to deal with this torrent of people and problems. Therefore, the social scientists have to think about why new life is created in the first place, where the pill, and the concepts of romantic love, easy sex, marriage and divorce fit into the life of the nation.

"I don't want to know the answer," about why people fall in love, marry or don't, Proxmire says in what was probably one of his few careless public statements, but a lot of other people want the answers studied, even if "romantic love" and why people marry remain a mystery, as they undoubtedly will.

The Endangered Ones

WASHINGTON — During the past century, predatory men have wiped out approximately 10% of all known animal species. Another 10% are close to extinction.

To protect our wildlife, Congress finally pushed through the Endangered Species Act in 1973. This gave the government broad, sweeping powers to stop the slaughter of the vanishing species.

Yet today, the endangered animals are in as much peril as they ever have been. The reason is that the act has been entrusted to balking bureaucrats to administer.

The new Endangered Species Office was placed under the jurisdiction of the Fish and Wildlife Service, which has a close relationship with the hunting-fishing lobby. Our sources report that the Fish and Wildlife bureaucrats are obstructing the experts who were brought in to protect the disappearing wildlife.

The main function of these experts is to determine which animals should be listed as endangered, thereby bringing them under government protection. But the experts keep tripping over the bureaucratic red tape.

During the first full year of the act's existence, not one species was placed on the endangered list. Yet biologists claim at least 400 species are threatened with extinction.

When the howls of the conservationists grew uncomfortably loud, the bureaucrats finally listed the kangaroo as a threatened animal. But the steps taken to halt the traffic in kangaroo hides were so weak that the President's Council on Environmental Quality protested.

The chief obstructionist is Keith Schreiner, a Fish and Wildlife associate director, who has direct authority over the Endangered Species Office. Our sources say he has held up many listings under pressure from the hunting lobby.

Explained one source: "Keith isn't an environmentalist. He's a bureaucrat. His first and primary concern is seeing that everything runs smoothly, that the wheels are always oiled."

At a recent staff meeting, Schreiner asked a biologist to name the two categories of endangered species. The man dutifully wrote down "threatened and endangered" — the common listings.

Schreiner quickly corrected him. The two types, he said, were "controversial and non-controversial."

The meaning was clear to those who attended the meeting. Any listing of a species that might cause controversy should be handled very, very slowly.

In a talk with our reporter Ed Tropeano, Schreiner denied that he is obstructing the Endangered Species Act. He merely is laying what he called "a firm groundwork for the act."

He has never delayed listing an animal for political reasons, he said, although he admitted he has sent staff reports back occasionally for more information.

The professionals on the staff dispute this. "When he requests more information," said one, "he's just stalling. It's a situation where you can never get enough facts."

Schreiner has been behind several delaying actions, according to our sources, including the following.

—For over a year, staff biologists have been trying in vain to list the green sea turtle as endangered. In most places, this rare turtle is near extinction. Our sources say Schreiner is holding up action to save the green turtle because of opposition from commercial interests.

When we asked Schreiner about this, he said he was awaiting a status report on the turtle before making a decision. Yet we have in our possession a voluminous status report, completed by his own staff last September, which states the turtle should be classified as endangered.

—Last August, Schreiner personally received a memo warning that the American crocodile was being driven into oblivion by human habitation. There were only 11 nesting females left in the United States, declared the memo, with the total American crocodile population down to 300. Immediate action was required, Schreiner was told, to save the species. Yet he kept a staff report, recommending that the animal be listed as endangered, on his desk for a month and then sent it back demanding more information. He got the new facts in January, but he still hasn't acted.

—Several species, which are known to be in danger of extinction, have been called to Schreiner's attention, without results. Among them are such animals as the clouded leopard, chimpanzee, glacier bear, Indian elephant and Mexican wolf.

Tobacco Burned At Record Rate

It was somewhat amusing to read that a spokeswoman for the tobacco industry said in Nebraska the other day that as yet there hasn't been enough study to determine whether smoking is injurious to the health. That is rather like the obstinate mathematician still searching for an answer other than four for the addition of two and two.

Or, taking another tack, wrapping tobacco in a cloak of innocence and purity is like claiming that firearms are harmless. Guns don't kill, they say, people do.

Sure, and people smoke cigarettes. And guns or cigarettes in the hands of people are both capable of causing trouble.

We don't imagine there is a physician in this world — other than, perhaps, someone married into a fine old tobacco family — who has nice things to say about smoking. Every type of practitioner of the healing arts from heart specialist to dental hygienist will tell you to stop smoking. It is linked to a host of ailments from high blood pressure to cancer to ugly stains.

A Threat To Park Land

In what should be by now a familiar scenario, a fourth municipal courtroom would take shape in the present quarters of the city personnel department. That department would relocate in space on the county side of the County-City Building now occupied by a state driver's licensing station. That agency would find space on a long-term but "temporary" basis on ground within Antelope Park near the Muni swimming pool.

The City Parks and Recreation Board last week recommended that the city allow the county to put a temporary office in Antelope Park for only two years. Two years, says County Board Chairman Jan Gauger, is as good as saying "no." She says that the county's investment in any type of structure to house the driver's licensing office at the park would pay off only if the county is allowed to use the site for four to five years. "They say they need four to five

But people are smoking more cigarettes than ever before, the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) says. Last year, Americans smoked a record 602.2 billion cigarettes.

The public continues to puff away in the face of overwhelming evidence and good advice.

The FTC recommends a stronger warning on cigarette and little cigar packs and a stepped-up public service campaign to point out the dangers of smoking.

Warnings, we fear, are lost in clouds of smoke and the cacophony of hacking coughs. Besides, there's a mulish streak in people which makes them ignore their better judgment. Only the young, who are more apt to be impressed by convincing argument, and who perhaps have not taken up the more traditional forms of smoking, are likely to be swayed by public service programs telling of the dangers of tobacco.

Most people won't quit unless they are frightened out of their wits by the realization of what their habits might do to them and in many cases it is already too late.

years — we'll give them four to five years," says Mayor Schwartzkopf. "As long as they (the county) understand it's temporary, we'll go along."

Anything four to five years "temporary" is permanent in our book. We think the mayor will be absolutely wrong if he goes against the advice of the park board.

The board is properly concerned that park land should be reserved for park purposes and that's why a two-year limit was recommended. The board's concern is not groundless.

The city and county governments thus far have shown that the temptation to carve up the inside of the County-City Building and to find makeshift solutions for space problems is irresistible.

It is critically important that the temptation to use public park land for other governmental purposes be resisted at all costs.

W.I.N.—R.I.P.

There apparently wasn't any public service, or private rites for that matter, for WIN, which passed away some ten days ago.

WIN (Whip Inflation Now) was buried quickly with as few words said over its body as possible. The grieving father doubtless wanted it that way.

The ineffectiveness of WIN strikes a blow at the concept of volunteerism. Although, volunteerism did work somewhat throughout the Arab oil embargo.

We are not intending to be unkind to President Ford and his sincere effort in our suggesting that naive gimmickery will not cure the nation's economic ills.

It might have worked in Andy Hardy America — but this is not, unfortunately, that more simple time. This is a more sophisticated, cynical, selfish era in which people have been spoiled to the extent that it is difficult for them to individually practice restraint.

We're not saying Americans can't pull together for a cause. It just seems like they will have to be pushed up against the edge of the abyss to do it.

ON TARGET

By DON WALTON

Don't be too surprised if Nebraska goes to war with England today.

Or if the newest state assistance program is a foreign aid plan for Ireland.

Or if the state insect (the bee) is followed by a state color (green) or a state gnome (the leuprechhaun).

For it is that today is St. Patrick's Day, and the Nebraska Legislature meets today . . . and it has an inordinate number of members with Irish blood flowing through their veins.

Their names would do any legislative body in Ireland proud . . . names like Cavanaugh and Fitzgerald and Kelly and Kennedy and Mahoney and Murphy.

If they could get some favorable parliamentary rulings out of Lt. Gov. Gerald O'Whelan, they might just have enough votes to have their way.

So, hang on, folks. The Irishmen are on the loose today.

Seldom, I think, does the Legislature look as bad as it does when a wholesale number of senators abandon a bill in the face of a gubernatorial veto.

That happened last week.

It doesn't really matter what the bill was (an education measure which could lead to a requirement for four-year college degrees for all public school teachers) or whether the governor was right or wrong.

What is disturbing is the fact that a dozen senators who voted to enact the bill on Feb. 27 (when it was approved on a 35-5 vote) voted to sustain the governor's veto on March 12.

That has happened before, and it raises some questions:

—were those guys trying to land on both sides of the issue for political gain, or to avoid political damage?

—were those guys admitting they didn't know what they were doing the first time they voted, that they had reached their initial decision without studying or understanding the issue?

—were those guys willing to side with the governor, no matter which way he chose to go, thus abandoning their own independent responsibility to their constituents?

—did those guys not care at all whether the bill passed or failed?

Some strong, independent, industrious and able senators were among the dozen — so there must be some other explanation for their action. More information, they might tell you.

In any event, I think that sort of shifting shows the Legislature at its weakest.

Most of the senators try to gain an understanding of the hundreds of bills they must consider. In reaching their conclusions, senators must make thousands of decisions (that's literal, not figurative) over the term of a legislative session.

But when the time comes for a final reading determination, citizens hope their senator knows what he (or she) is doing.

When a dozen senators abandon their position in the face of a gubernatorial veto, citizens have a right to wonder.

The fact is that the Legislature has improved its record of retreating in the face of a veto.

Last week's example ran contrary to the record established in the fading days of the 1974 legislative session.

Last year, senators stood their ground on school aid and on their state budget decisions despite gubernatorial vetoes.

This year's record on legislative stamina is yet to be written.

JAMES RESTON

NEW YORK — Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin has discovered that the National Science Foundation is spending $83,000 a year out of the Federal Treasury to find out why people fall in love, and he wants it stopped. Not the love but the spending. "Biggest boondoggle of the year," he says. "I don't want the answer."

This is not like our old buddy, Bill. He is normally a sensible and even a romantic type himself, a physical fitness buff who jogs to the Capitol in the morning and spends most of his time there digging out the facts, but he wants romantic love to remain a mystery.

Senators seem to be in a peremptory mood these days. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania tells Lon Nol of Cambodia to get out. Teddy Kennedy tells Cappy Weinberger of HEW to get lost. Jim Buckley of New York advises President Ford to turn right. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota tells Arthur Burns of the Fed to give us more dollars, more housing, more jobs or go home. But I digress.

Love is a different question. The senator from Wisconsin, Proxmire, is a modern man who believes that government should help people with their problems. He is a land-grant college man, and will vote any amount of money on the dangers of natural selection in animals, and for basic research on how to get the best bulls and cows together on the farms of Wisconsin, but he is against basic research on the alarming divorce rate or break-up of the human family in America. You have to assume he was kidding.

The National Center for Health Statistics of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has just reported that there were 970,000 divorces in the United States in 1974, compared to 913,000 in 1973, and 479,000 in 1965. The rate of population growth in the United States is down over the last decade, but in 1974, the excess of births over deaths was still up by over a million and a quarter, while the rate of marriages was down and the rate of divorces was up.

All the National Science Foundation was suggesting, and the federal government was financing, was a modest inquiry into these statistics. Why this increase in divorce, this decrease in marriage, this disbelief in the family as the basis of American life?

Were the expectations of married life unreasonably high? Were the assumptions of courtship, and of economic security — an enduring reality or a trap? What was romantic love, anyway — a basis for secure family and national life, or a dangerous illusion?

With these questions in mind, the National Science Foundation was given $83,000 to see whether it could come up with any answers or at least clues, and the burden of research fell on Ellen Berscheid, a professor of psy-

Wonderful Neighbor

Lincoln, Neb. We have a good neighbor who lives at 7127 Platte Ave. by the name of Richard Rhoades. When we have a snow, this good neighbor goes for blocks and blocks with his snow-blower and cleans off so many neighbors' sidewalks. We all think he is wonderful.

It looks like a case of the pot's calling the kettle black.

We have read how the Cambodians and South Vietnamese have tried to defend house by house, and we know what will follow.

Should not every man be entitled to medical help? These men have no choice but to take what they can get. If they could have gotten it, a lot of men would be alive now.

Oil Supply Fraud Schemes May Have Cost Americans Billions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is investigating possible oil supply fraud schemes which may have cost American consumers billions of dollars, government spokesmen say.

A Federal Energy Administration source said Sunday grand juries in Jacksonville, Fla., New York and Los Angeles were looking into the possible price manipulations.

They center around the rapid rise of prices during the Arab oil embargo, "probably involving fraud," said a U.S. Customs Service spokesman, Mark McCormick.

The FEA source said it appeared likely that such cases may also be presented to grand juries in Houston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Boston.

"We are going to investigate every major utility company in the nation," the FEA source said.

McCormick said the investigation is looking into alleged mislabeling of the country of origin of some oil delivered by tankers to the United States during the 1973 embargo. There have been allegations that importers and suppliers falsified documents required by the customs service, he said.

For example, oil coming from Ecuador, Iran or Indonesia might be noted in Customs records as coming from Libya or Algeria, whose oil was priced higher.

The FEA source said investigators found possible violations involving at least $21 million and possibly as much as $100 million in their examination of public utility companies and their fuel purchases so far, with many more still to be probed.

He said they found some $15 million in possible fuel overcharges in five out of the seven utilities studied as part of FEA's Project Escalator, the investigation into fuel purchases by electric utilities.

In addition, he said the Customs Service found possible overcharges of about $250 million to $500 million in its investigation of 30 oil importers in six major ports.

He said Customs had about 30 investigators and FEA about 60 working directly on electric utility fuel purchases.

In addition, he said, about 80 FEA investigators were working on Project Manipulator, looking into possible violations of price regulations on so-called "old oil" and "new oil."

It appeared that the findings so far may be just the beginning.

John L. Murphy, head of the government regulations section of the Justice Department, said the department was involved in the investigation only in a supervisory way.

Among the investigations is one in Los Angeles where customs agents are reportedly looking into purchases by the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power.

An agent has made three or four visits to check records of the department, John Russell, a buyer for the department, told The Associated Press.

Russell said that as far as he knows the probe involves only one company in Los Angeles but he declined to say which one.

Customs agents reportedly were checking purchases by the department of oil at $25 a barrel, five times what it had paid before the embargo.

Russell said there was one instance where the department paid $25 a barrel for 150,000 barrels of oil from Peru through Cirillo Bros. Co. of New York.

The next highest amount paid was more than $24 per barrel for one million barrels from Coastal States Marketing in Houston, he said.

"Another term contract subject to escalation was a joint offering from International Gas Traders of Lugano, Switzerland, and Petroba Ltd., a Bahamas corporation with offices in Quincy, Mass. During the height of the escalation, the price was more than $24 a barrel, when you include transportation which we arranged separately . . ." he added.

In Florida, in addition to the federal grand jury probe, a state grand jury in Jacksonville also was investigating oil prices. There reportedly were allegations that oil was sent overseas and then brought back at a higher price.

Harry Shorstein, an attorney for the City of Jacksonville, has advised the Jacksonville Electric Authority (JEA) to withhold $6.3 million which was the last payment on a contract with Ven-Fuel, a company based in Houston.

Ven-Fuel has supplied the JEA with fuel the past two years until Oct. 1. Ven-Fuel went to federal court in Miami to try to collect the money from the JEA but the suit was dismissed on technical grounds.

In Washington, the American Petroleum Institute said in a statement it believes the allegations "are vastly overblown if true at all."

"We reject the implication that the nation's oil companies have been parties to a massive conspiracy that has resulted in alleged overcharges of from $1 billion to $3 billion," the statement said.

'Sleuth' Study In Socio-Psychology

By BILL WALLIS

The Lincoln Community Playhouse's present production of "Sleuth," which premiered in London in 1970, is generally lively and entertaining.

Since this is one of the first nonprofessional productions in the country (the Omaha Playhouse is scheduled to produce it in the fall), Lincolinites may want to see it within the next three weeks, because it may be some time before it comes around again.

The play is a study of psychosis and game-playing. It was written when game-playing (socio-psychology) theory was at its height. It is also — and this is the primary source of its real dramatic value — a series of real and fabricated mysteries paraded by two master storytellers.

These two characters compete mentally and physically for a vague title of victor. Each determines his own rules, for the game he plays and the rules may be cruel and unjust.

Andrew Wyke, a master mystery novelist, is losing his wife to Milo Tindle, a "nobody." He summons Milo, and after duping him in a variety of ways, frightens him severely by threatening to kill him and firing a gun close to his head.

Milo retaliates with a full investigation, and another "murder," this one real. The charades move with lightning speed; rules are defined only by wit and cunning, by intellect and instinct in close contact.

Wyke is portrayed by Roger Dickeson with good timing, gravity, and insight. He is quite funny, but not witty enough to put the part across. It is on his character that the style of the play rests; his portrayal — and the production as a result — is not clever, sharp, or defined enough.

The incongruity of manner and subject is not pointed. The responsibility for the slowness of pace which stretched the opening quarter of the show, however, must rest on John Wilson's rather lackadaisical (rather than edgy, slightly guarded) first act portrayal. But Mr. Wilson's second act was quite masterful, and very much in the style of the piece — a fine performance.

Audibility is sometimes a problem, especially with Dickeson. The movement is clever at times, and balanced. The set is well constructed and the design very fine, but it is very poorly painted and textured. The continued unevenness of the lighting changes was distracting, and some minor technical problems were apparent.

The general fun and challenge of the show is intact, the acting very good, and the technical elements more than adequate. The show is a difficult one, and the playhouse is to be congratulated for its fine effort.

Man Faces Charge In Slashing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police Chief Edward M. Davis said Sunday a man who has been in jail for more than a month will be charged in connection with the Skid Row Slasher case.

Vaughn Greenwood, 31, of Los Angeles, has been in custody since Feb. 3 and Davis said he would be charged in the Slasher murders. He did not say what the charge would be.

Greenwood was charged with assault and burglary in connection with an attack on two men in which an assailant used a hatchet and a knife. The two victims are recuperating from the Feb. 2 attack.

The bodies of nine men, most winos and derelicts, were found between Dec. 1 and Jan. 31 in what police call the Slasher murders. Each murder had the same deadly trademark — the victim's throat had been slit from ear to ear. The first seven victims were discovered in the Skid Row section of Los Angeles.

No charges had been filed as of Sunday against Greenwood in the Slasher killings, police said. But police scheduled a news conference Monday to discuss the case and Greenwood's possible connection with it.

"I don't want the speculation about this man to interfere with his right to a fair trial and so I will have the district attorney . . . there to tell you all they can tell you about the case . . . because it will be in the judicial system real soon," Davis said.

Oil Supply Fraud Schemes May Have Cost Americans Billions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is investigating possible oil supply fraud schemes which may have cost American consumers billions of dollars, government spokesmen say.

A Federal Energy Administration source said Sunday grand juries in Jacksonville, Fla., New York and Los Angeles were looking into the possible price manipulations.

They center around the rapid rise of prices during the Arab oil embargo, "probably involving fraud," said a U.S. Customs Service spokesman, Mark McCormick.

The FEA source said it appeared likely that such cases may also be presented to grand juries in Houston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Boston.

"We are going to investigate every major utility company in the nation," the FEA source said.

McCormick said the investigation is looking into alleged mislabeling of the country of origin of some oil delivered by tankers to the United States during the 1973 embargo. There have been allegations that importers and suppliers falsified documents required by the customs service, he said.

For example, oil coming from Ecuador, Iran or Indonesia might be noted in Customs records as coming from Libya or Algeria, whose oil was priced higher.

The FEA source said investigators found possible violations involving at least $21 million and possibly as much as $100 million in their examination of public utility companies and their fuel purchases so far, with many more still to be probed.

He said they found some $15 million in possible fuel overcharges in five out of the seven utilities studied as part of FEA's Project Escalator, the investigation into fuel purchases by electric utilities.

In addition, he said the Customs Service found possible overcharges of about $250 million to $500 million in its investigation of 30 oil importers in six major ports.

He said Customs had about 30 investigators and FEA about 60 working directly on electric utility fuel purchases.

In addition, he said, about 80 FEA investigators were working on Project Manipulator, looking into possible violations of price regulations on so-called "old oil" and "new oil."

It appeared that the findings so far may be just the beginning.

John L. Murphy, head of the government regulations section of the Justice Department, said the department was involved in the investigation only in a supervisory way.

Among the investigations is one in Los Angeles where customs agents are reportedly looking into purchases by the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power.

An agent has made three or four visits to check records of the department, John Russell, a buyer for the department, told The Associated Press.

Russell said that as far as he knows the probe involves only one company in Los Angeles but he declined to say which one.

Customs agents reportedly were checking purchases by the department of oil at $25 a barrel, five times what it had paid before the embargo.

Russell said there was one instance where the department paid $25 a barrel for 150,000 barrels of oil from Peru through Cirillo Bros. Co. of New York.

The next highest amount paid was more than $24 per barrel for one million barrels from Coastal States Marketing in Houston, he said.

"Another term contract subject to escalation was a joint offering from International Gas Traders of Lugano, Switzerland, and Petroba Ltd., a Bahamas corporation with offices in Quincy, Mass. During the height of the escalation, the price was more than $24 a barrel, when you include transportation which we arranged separately . . ." he added.

In Florida, in addition to the federal grand jury probe, a state grand jury in Jacksonville also was investigating oil prices. There reportedly were allegations that oil was sent overseas and then brought back at a higher price.

Harry Shorstein, an attorney for the City of Jacksonville, has advised the Jacksonville Electric Authority (JEA) to withhold $6.3 million which was the last payment on a contract with Ven-Fuel, a company based in Houston.

Ven-Fuel has supplied the JEA with fuel the past two years until Oct. 1. Ven-Fuel went to federal court in Miami to try to collect the money from the JEA but the suit was dismissed on technical grounds.

In Washington, the American Petroleum Institute said in a statement it believes the allegations "are vastly overblown if true at all."

"We reject the implication that the nation's oil companies have been parties to a massive conspiracy that has resulted in alleged overcharges of from $1 billion to $3 billion," the statement said.

'Sleuth' Study In Socio-Psychology

By BILL WALLIS

The Lincoln Community Playhouse's present production of "Sleuth," which premiered in London in 1970, is generally lively and entertaining.

Since this is one of the first nonprofessional productions in the country (the Omaha Playhouse is scheduled to produce it in the fall), Lincolites may want to see it within the next three weeks, because it may be some time before it comes around again.

The play is a study of psychosis and game-playing. It was written when game-playing (socio-psychology) theory was at its height. It is also — and this is the primary source of its real dramatic value — a series of real and fabricated mysteries paraded by two master storytellers.

These two characters compete mentally and physically for a vague title of victor. Each determines his own rules, for the game he plays and the rules may be cruel and unjust.

Andrew Wyke, a master mystery novelist, is losing his wife to Milo Tindle, a "nobody." He summons Milo, and after duping him in a variety of ways, frightens him severely by threatening to kill him and firing a gun close to his head.

Milo retaliates with a full investigation, and another "murder," this one real. The charades move with lightning speed; rules are defined only by wit and cunning, by intellect and instinct in close contact.

Wyke is portrayed by Roger Dickeson with good timing, gravity, and insight. He is quite funny, but not witty enough to put the part across. It is on his character that the style of the play rests; his portrayal — and the production as a result — is not clever, sharp, or defined enough.

The incongruity of manner and subject is not pointed.

The responsibility for the slowness of pace which stretched the opening quarter of the show, however, must rest on John Wilson's rather lackadaisical (rather than edgy, slightly guarded) first act portrayal. But Mr. Wilson's second act was quite masterful, and very much in the style of the piece — a fine performance.

Audibility is sometimes a problem, especially with Dickeson. The movement is clever at times, and balanced.

The set is well constructed and the design very fine, but it is very poorly painted and textured. The continued unevenness of the lighting changes was distracting, and some minor technical problems were apparent.

The general fun and challenge of the show is intact, the acting very good, and the technical elements more than adequate. The show is a difficult one, and the playhouse is to be congratulated for its fine effort.

Man Faces Charge In Slashing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police Chief Edward M. Davis said Sunday a man who has been in jail for more than a month will be charged in connection with the Skid Row Slasher case.

Vaughn Greenwood, 31, of Los Angeles, has been in custody since Feb. 3 and Davis said he would be charged in the Slasher murders. He did not say what the charge would be.

Greenwood was charged with assault and burglary in connection with an attack on two men in which an assailant used a hatchet and a knife. The two victims are recuperating from the Feb. 2 attack.

The bodies of nine men, most winos and derelicts, were found between Dec. 1 and Jan. 31 in what police call the Slasher murders. Each murder had the same deadly trademark — the victim's throat had been slit from ear to ear. The first seven victims were discovered in the Skid Row section of Los Angeles.

No charges had been filed as of Sunday against Greenwood in the Slasher killings, police said. But police scheduled a news conference Monday to discuss the case and Greenwood's possible connection with it.

"I don't want the speculation about this man to interfere with his right to a fair trial and so I will have the district attorney . . . there to tell you all they can tell you about the case . . . because it will be in the judicial system real soon," Davis said.

200,000 Haven't Filed Tax Returns

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

With less than one month remaining between the taxpayer and the income tax deadline, about one-third of Nebraska's taxpayers have not filed their returns.

According to information available from the State Department of Revenue, 419,808 returns have been filed of the approximate 620,000 anticipated by the April 15 deadline.

Gary Chunka of the Revenue Department said that of approximately 200,000 returns remaining to be filed by the deadline, about 75,000 will not be sent in until the last few days. The remaining 100,000 to 125,000 are expected within the next three weeks, he said.

Although many taxpayers who must pay wait until nearer the deadline, Chunka predicted that about half of the returns yet to be filed will result in refunds for the taxpayers.

Of the 419,708 returns filed as of March 14, 303,562 had been processed, he said, and of these, 278,457 resulted in refunds.

Refunds to date total $15,540,604 as compared with $15,931,061 at this time a year ago. The average refund of $55.81 is running about $3.73 below the average refund at this time last year.

The decline in the average 1974 refund which has been continually running about $3.70 less than the 1973 refund, may be attributed to the differences in the amounts withheld during 1974.

According to Chunka, the state "overwithheld one per cent" during 1973, so that most taxpayers realized a higher refund when they filed their 1973 returns.

Many workers also carried higher exemptions in 1974 than they had in prior years, Chunka said.

For example, he explained, many taxpayers who claimed no exemptions during the year — so they would be assured a refund when their returns were filed — are now claiming exemptions during the year.

This allows them more money to spend during the year, he noted, with the hope they'll come up with no tax due instead of a refund at the time of filing returns.

In addition, the state has processed a considerable number of forms for "food tax credit only," Chunka said.

About 50,000 of these were received and the checks for the $13 per person food tax credit were mailed out by Jan. 15, he said.

Nebraska residents who had insufficient income to warrant filing an income tax return are entitled to a $13 food tax refund for which a form must also be filed by the April 15 deadline, he said.

HUD Men To Discuss Dorm Contract Change

Regional officials of the Department of Housing and Urban Development Tuesday will discuss possible changes in the contract to pay off a financially troubled HUD-owned dormitory on the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College Fairbury campus.

The officials will meet with the college area board in the morning before the regular monthly meeting at 1 p.m. on the Milford campus.

College Area President Dr. Robert S. Eicher has been seeking alternate uses of the Fairbury dormitory, which has a $500,000-plus bond obligation outstanding. But Eicher said again he sees no way to raise the $32,000 annual bond payment, which cannot be raised by student resident fees as required.

In other business, the Southeast Community College Faculty Association will request recognition by the board for informal discussions on salaries and fringe benefits.

The board will hear reports on a proposal to form the Nebraska Association of Community College Trustees to lobby and coordinate curricula for the vocational-technical schools, and on changes in use of the gymnasium on Southeast's Fairbury campus, because of added girls athletics.

Board members will consider new policies for 1975, and legislative proposals in the unicameral that would affect the community college system.

Omaha School Lunch Money Surplus Predicted

Omaha (AP) — Director Marjorie Roberts says the food service department of the Omaha School District won't run out of money after all.

The main benefactor has been the federal government and its $550,000 in donated food since December.

Mrs. Roberts had predicted last year that the balance by this June would be zero. She now estimates more than $200,000 may be carried over.

Mrs. Roberts said the donated food started coming in December and the government in January raised its per plate reimbursement to the district three-fourths of a cent for a regular lunch and three cents for free and reduced price lunches.

She said the donated foods are staples which the food service department would have to buy if they weren't given by the government.

Father Sued For $79,000 In Boat Mishap

Omaha (AP) — An Iowan is suing his father for $79,000 as the result of injuries suffered in a motorboat accident on Hugh Butler Lake near McCook last May.

The suit was filed in Federal District Court in Omaha by Mark W. McColey of Mondamin, Iowa, against his father, Edward McColey of Omaha.

The suit claims Mark was a passenger in a boat operated by his father when it struck rocks on the lake.

It charges the senior McColey failed to keep the boat under control, that he was operating at an excessive speed under the circumstances, did not have the boat in proper repair and failed to keep a proper lookout for the rocks.

The suit claims the younger McColey suffered severe and permanent injuries to his right kneecap and cuts and abrasions.

It claims medical expenses totaled $271 and the younger McColey suffered wage losses amounting to $4,000.

No Murder Evidence Found In Moore Case

By The Associated Press
An investigation by the Nebraska State Patrol concludes there is no evidence John S. Moore, an Indian found stabbed to death at the American Indian Movement Barrack last summer, was murdered.

Gov. J. James Exon asked the patrol to look into Moore's death after his parents said they felt the case should be reopened. His death was originally ruled suicide.

Exon announced that the patrol had completed its investigation and that the report concluded that "based on present evidence and additional investigation by the Nebraska State Patrol, it is our opinion that there is no evidence at this time to support that this is a homicide."

The patrol recommended "this case not be closed and we will continue to investigate any additional information that may come to our attention."

"After a careful review of the report and briefing by our investigators, I concur with their conclusion and recommendation," Exon said.

Exon's remarks were contained in a letter written to Lancaster County Atty. Ron Lahners and Edward Krupinsky, special agent in charge of the Omaha office of the FBI.

The FBI cooperated in the investigation. Moore, 20, was a Penobscot Indian from Maine. At the time of his death, he was staying at the barrack which was used to house AIM members and supporters who were in Lincoln for the U.S. District Court trials involving the takeover of Wounded Knee, S.D.

Vote Set April 1 On Fluoridation

Weeping Water (UPI) — Residents of this Cass County community will vote on water fluoridation April 1.

The vote resulted from successful petition drive efforts earlier this year.

Several Cass County communities have vetoed fluoridation while to date Louisville has been the only community to approve it.

Brennan Goes Home
New York (AP) — Peter Brennan, who resigned as secretary of labor last month, is coming home to roost as president of the New York City Building and Construction Trades Council on April 1, a spokesman said.

200,000 Haven't Filed Tax Returns

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

With less than one month remaining between the taxpayer and the income tax deadline, about one-third of Nebraska's taxpayers have not filed their returns.

According to information available from the State Department of Revenue, 419,808 returns have been filed of the approximate 620,000 anticipated by the April 15 deadline.

Gary Chunka of the Revenue Department said that of approximately 200,000 returns remaining to be filed by the deadline, about 75,000 will not be sent in until the last few days.

The remaining 100,000 to 125,000 are expected within the next three weeks, he said.

Although many taxpayers who must pay wait until nearer the deadline, Chunka predicted that about half of the returns yet to be filed will result in refunds for the taxpayers.

Of the 419,708 returns filed as of March 14, 303,562 had been processed, he said, and of these, 278,457 resulted in refunds.

Refunds to date total $15,540,604 as compared with $15,931,061 at this time a year ago. The average refund of $55.81 is running about $3.73 below the average refund at this time last year.

The decline in the average 1974 refund which has been continually running about $3.70 less than the 1973 refund, may be attributed to the differences in the amounts withheld during 1974.

According to Chunka, the state "overwithheld one per cent" during 1973, so that most taxpayers realized a higher refund when they filed their 1973 returns.

Many workers also carried higher exemptions in 1974 than they had in prior years, Chunka said.

For example, he explained, many taxpayers who claimed no exemptions during the year — so they would be assured a refund when their returns were filed — are now claiming exemptions during the year.

This allows them more money to spend during the year, he noted, with the hope they'll come up with no tax due instead of a refund at the time for filing returns.

In addition, the state has processed a considerable number of forms for "food tax credit only," Chunka said.

About 50,000 of these were received and the checks for the $13 per person food tax credit were mailed out by Jan. 15, he said.

Nebraska residents who had insufficient income to warrant filing an income tax return are entitled to a $13 food tax refund for which a form must also be filed by the April 15 deadline, he said.

HUD Men To Discuss Dorm Contract Change

Regional officials of the Department of Housing and Urban Development Tuesday will discuss possible changes in the contract to pay off a financially troubled HUD-owned dormitory on the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College Fairbury campus.

The officials will meet with the college area board in the morning before the regular monthly meeting at 1 p.m. on the Milford campus.

College Area President Dr. Robert S. Eicher has been seeking alternate uses of the Fairbury dormitory, which has a $500,000-plus bond obligation outstanding. But Eicher said again he sees no way to raise the $32,000 annual bond payment, which cannot be raised by student resident fees as required.

In other business, the Southeast Community College Faculty Association will request recognition by the board for informal discussions on salaries and fringe benefits.

The board will hear reports on a proposal to form the Nebraska Association of Community College Trustees to lobby and coordinate curricula for the vocational-technical schools, and on changes in use of the gymnasium on Southeast's Fairbury campus, because of added girls athletes.

Board members will consider new policies for 1975, and legislative proposals in the Unicameral that would affect the community college system.

Omaha School Lunch Money Surplus Predicted

Omaha (AP) — Director Marjorie Roberts says the food service department of the Omaha School District won't run out of money after all.

The main benefactor has been the federal government and its $550,000 in donated food since December.

Mrs. Roberts had predicted last year that the balance by this June would be zero. She now estimates more than $200,000 may be carried over.

Mrs. Roberts said the donated food started coming in December and the government in January raised its per plate reimbursement to the district three-fourths of a cent for a regular lunch and three cents for free and reduced price lunches.

She said the donated foods are staples which the food service department would have to buy if they weren't given by the government.

Father Sued For $79,000 In Boat Mishap

Omaha (AP) — An Iowan is suing his father for $79,000 as the result of injuries suffered in a motorboat accident on Hugh Butler Lake near McCook last May.

The suit was filed in Federal District Court in Omaha by Mark W. McColey of Mondamin, Iowa, against his father, Edward McColey of Omaha.

The suit claims Mark was a passenger in a boat operated by his father when it struck rocks on the lake.

It charges the senior McColey failed to keep the boat under control, that he was operating at an excessive speed under the circumstances, did not have the boat in proper repair and failed to keep a proper lookout for the rocks.

The suit claims the younger McColey suffered severe and permanent injuries to his right kneecap and cuts and abrasions.

It claims medical expenses totaled $271 and the younger McColey suffered wage losses amounting to $4,000.

No Murder Evidence Found In Moore Case

By The Associated Press

An investigation by the Nebraska State Patrol concludes there is no evidence John S. Moore, an Indian found stabbed to death at the American Indian Movement Barrack last summer, was murdered.

Gov. J. James Exon asked the patrol to look into Moore's death after his parents said they felt the case should be reopened. His death was originally ruled suicide.

Exon announced that the patrol had completed its investigation and that the report concluded that "based on present evidence and additional investigation by the Nebraska State Patrol, it is our opinion that there is no evidence at this time to support that this is a homicide."

The patrol recommended "this case not be closed and we will continue to investigate any additional information that may come to our attention."

"After a careful review of the report and briefing by our investigators, I concur with their conclusion and recommendation," Exon said.

Exon's remarks were contained in a letter written to Lancaster County Atty. Ron Lahners and Edward Krupinsky, special agent in charge of the Omaha office of the FBI.

The FBI cooperated in the investigation.

Moore, 20, was a Penobscot Indian from Maine.

At the time of his death, he was staying at the barrack which was used to house AIM members and supporters who were in Lincoln for the U.S. District Court trials involving the takeover of Wounded Knee, S.D.

Vote Set April 1 On Fluoridation

Weeping Water (UPI) — Residents of this Cass County community will vote on water fluoridation April 1.

The vote resulted from successful petition drive efforts earlier this year.

Several Cass County communities have vetoed fluoridation while to date Louisville has been the only community to approve it.

Brennan Goes Home

New York (AP) — Peter Brennan, who resigned as secretary of labor last month, is coming home to roost as president of the New York City Building and Construction Trades Council on April 1, a spokesman said.

Two Win 4-H Honors

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln 4-H Club honored State 4-H and Youth Development Leader W. M. Antes and NU meat scientist Dr. Roger Mandigo during the club's annual recognition tea here Sunday afternoon.

Antes received the Club's Outstanding Service Award, which consisted of a traveling plaque and a scrapbook of congratulatory letters from friends and co-workers. Antes recently received the Youth Services Award from the Northeast Lincoln Kiwanis Club, and during the 1974 Nebraska State Fair was honored by Nebraska 4-H members, leaders and parents in a special ceremony.

Slated to retire in July after a 44-year career in the Cooperative Extension Service, Antes has seen state 4-H membership jump from 20,000 when he became leader in 1951, to a current high of 45,000.

Dr. Glen Krohn, assistant State 4-H leader, said Antes was recognized for his continued support of 4-H at the university level. Krohn said club members see Antes as a friend and a "father image" on campus.

Mandigo is well known for his innovative research on restructured pork. He was given the club's "Friend of 4-H" award for his assistance in preparing meat mixtures used in the club's food booth at State Fair.

A member of the NU animal science department since 1966, Mandigo holds degrees from California State Polytechnic College, New Mexico State University and Oklahoma State University. He is a member of the American Meat Science Association, the American Society of Animal Science and was advisor to the NU Block and Bridle Club.

The University 4-H Club scholarships are awarded to a member of each class who has the highest scholastic average and participated in club activities. Donald Witte, a

The Dorothea Holstein scholarships were awarded to Gene Wrich of Blair and Mary Catherine Schwarm of Fairbury. They were selected according to their scholarship and financial need to receive the $75 scholarships.

'Ratchet' Plan Allows Electricity For Irrigation

Some farmers who have faced the possibility of not being able to get electricity for irrigation may be able to get it after all, thanks to LaVerne Stetson and other agricultural engineers at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Stetson, an engineer with the U.S. Agriculture Department's Agricultural Research Service, has been working with rural power districts in Nebraska and other states to determine whether they can profitably schedule irrigation during hours other than the peak power demand period.

Though some do not have enough difference between highest and lowest demand to use off-peak irrigation, many do, according to Stetson.

He has been working with two Nebraska districts, will work with a third this year, and recently met with people from five districts in Kansas.

The reason for the activity is the "ratchet."

The ratchet is 65% of the maximum power demand during any one hour of the year. When a district uses less power than its ratchet, it pays for unused power up to the ratchet.

Demand Varies
The ratchet arrangement is needed because there are considerable variations in power demand from season to season, but the Nebraska Public Power

JOHN EVANS ... left, CPPD chief, runs transmitter; Ivan Nelson, right, checks Jerry Reinhard's control.

District (NPPD), which supplies power to the rurals, must be equipped to supply all power needed during the highest demand season.

Thus, expensive facilities are idle during a season of low demand.

If the rurals can reduce their peak demand, they thus save money.

When Stetson, working with records from a power district, determines that the district can profitably save on its peak demand, the district, in Nebraska, works with NU Extension Irrigationist John Addick or a district Extension irrigationist, such as Darrell Watts of North Platte.

Low-Point Irrigation
The irrigationists help with planning to get farmers to irrigate only part of the day, when the demand for electricity for air conditioning and manufacturing equipment is the least.

Custer Public Power District (CPPD) at Broken Bow started the whole thing in 1973 with 20 center pivot and six surface irrigation systems totaling 2,120 connected horsepower.

In 1974 they reduced the number of voluntary cooperators but signed new irrigators to a mandatory contract that permits them to shut off the systems for as long as eight hours when power demands reach a predetermined level.

During the 1974 season, pumps were shut down only 17 days during high demand hours.

Although the peak demand increased 2,604 kilowatts over the 1973 season, it was an increase of only 6.3% compared with an expected annual growth rate of 8% for CPPD.

McCook Public Power District (MPPD) also started scheduling off-peak irrigation in 1974 with 17 cooperators and 2,245 horsepower.

Staggered System
The MPPD differences between high and low demands were relatively small, and the high demand period lasted longer than irrigation systems could be turned off, so the district went to a staggered system. One group was scheduled to be off from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., another from 2:30 to 7 p.m., and a third from 4 to 9 p.m.

While the MPPD peak power demand increased 24.2% over 1973, without the off-peak irrigation scheduling it would have been 3.2% higher, according to Stetson.

Irrigators indicated that they were satisfied with yields in 1974, he said.

The food shortage may have been a factor in the paper shortage if my mail is an indication. I have suddenly begun receiving invitations to buy books on every food-related subject you can think of.

Books on agriculture, on gardens, on home preserving of foods, on how to grow gardens, trees and crops. The average cost runs about $10 per copy.

Everyone it seems wants to make a buck on the shortage, but I question how much one saves if he spends $10 for a book and a fortune on high priced seeds, fertilizer, equipment and chemicals.

Producing food at home is good exercise, produces good food and, if one has luck and skill, he can save money. But don't forget that along with the book, seed, tools and jars for canning, you must put in a heck of a lot of hard work or what my mom called "elbow grease."

It is becoming increasingly clear that if the world's poor nations are to be fed it will take much more than food alone.

India, for example, has many railroads but there are several different widths of track that causes a lot of extra work and waste in getting food from one railroad to the other because the cars must be loaded and unloaded at each change.

In addition to the physical barriers to transporting food, there are religious, tribal and political barriers to getting food to the hungry. India has the world's largest herd of cattle but nearly no eaters of animal flesh. They can't even sell their beef to others in most cases.

India is a glaring example but Israel and the Moslem countries abhor pork, and there are many taboos around the world on most any kind of food you want to name. People starve in the midst of plenty.

Local officials in many nations have overestimated the needs of their people through a lack of experience and a thought that if you make the disaster appear bigger than it is you will get more help.

In some cases the arrival of the food delayed by lots of problems came at harvest time, forcing down local prices and discouraging farmers from planting a second crop.

To put it simply, they must permit the family who does the work to earn a greater profit, to give them an incentive to produce more than just enough to keep themselves alive.

There are a lot of folks making statements about agriculture these days without much knowledge to back up their statements. Here is an example nobody is going to believe but it did happen.

An article in the Vegetarian Times on cruelty of the animal industry said, "Other male calves are castrated and become bulls often not even seeing a cow, but having semen taken from them for the mass artificial insemination program of the meat and dairy industry."

If that statement seems logical to you then you are in deeper trouble than I suspected. Please go find a farmer and discuss it with him ... and you farmers, don't laugh when you are asked about things like this. We can't begin to have understanding of how food is produced until we understand the terms.

Farmers ought to know that companies from other nations are buying seats on the grain exchanges around the nation. Two Japanese companies just purchased seats on the Kansas City Exchange. Japan has had ownership of Chicago trade seats for some time. A Swiss firm has owned a Kansas City seat for several years and there are others.

One needn't be alarmed because these people are our grain customers, but one can be downright grateful that Congress had sense enough to establish better control of the futures trading system recently. I hope government moves to get the commission set up and operating to regulate trading immediately.

If you produce timber for sale or manufacture things from wood or deal in wood products or have walnut trees to sell, you ought to get on the mailing list of Timber Talk, a wood people newsletter from the Forestry Department at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Write to them or ask your county agent to make the contact.

Energy Forum Scheduled April 8

Nebraska leaders — from both public and private life — are being called to "A Forum on Energy for Nebraska," it was announced Sunday by Lt. Gov. Gerald T. Whelan and Dean George Hanna of the University of Nebraska College of Engineering and Technology.

The forum will be held Tuesday, April 8, at the NU Center for Continuing Education in Lincoln.

Gov. J. James Exon will discuss "Nebraska's Future Growth and Needs" at a luncheon that day.

Invitations to the forum are going to state senators, leaders of public power districts, city, county, state, municipal and university officials, business and industrial leaders, and engineers.

"We think we have an outstanding program covering all phases of the present energy situation in Nebraska," Hanna said. "Industrial leaders as well as people from the state energy office have assisted the university greatly in the development of the program."

Ralph Shaw, general manager of the Omaha Public Power District, will give the keynote address. The federal government will be represented by two Federal Energy Administration officials, and by Deputy Assistant Secretary of Commerce Don Johnson. John Lagerstrom, director of engineering extension at NU, will discuss Nebraska's energy balance.

A panel featuring university faculty members, Lincoln City Councilwoman Sue Bailey and Tom Hurt of Northern Natural Gas will react to the speakers' remarks.

The conference wrapup will be given by Whelan. Hanna will preside at the morning program and William E. Peters, state tax commissioner and energy coordinator, will preside in the afternoon.

In announcing the forum, Whelan expressed the hope that it would do more than emphasize conservation and discuss the present crisis.

"For instance, engineers at the university have done a remarkable job in developing techniques and methods for conserving energy and tapping little known sources, all of which could be useful to Nebraska farmers," he said.

"The people of Nebraska are unique in that they own all of the electrical facilities in the state. We have sunshine, we have water and we can make a distinct contribution to the energy situation if we all work together."

"I hope this forum will be a kickoff for a major energy development effort in Nebraska," Whelan said.

The forum will be followed by additional concentration on the energy topic at the university's annual Engineer's Week program, April 11-12.

Colorado Man Accused Of Defrauding Ranchers

DENVER (AP)—A federal grand jury has charged a Grand Junction, Colo., man with arranging to pay for cattle on delivery and then selling the cattle and keeping the income.

The indictment charges Rocky George Hengst with defrauding ranchers in Wyoming and Nebraska in the shipment and sale of cattle.

Hengst is charged with two counts of wire fraud because the alleged cattle deals were consummated in telephone conversations.

In one count, Hengst is charged with ordering 80 cattle from George Ellis Brown of near Cody, Wyo., and agreeing to pay for them upon delivery in Grand Junction, then selling the cattle at a Grand Junction barn and keeping the money.

The second count charges that Hengst ordered 40 Hereford cattle by telephone from Calvin Coulter and the Coulter

Hereford Ranch of Bridgeport, Neb.

The indictment charges that Hengst sold the cattle at auction after receiving them at Grand Junction and then pocketed the money.

The indictment alleges that in both cases Hengst told cattle auction barn officials that he was the owner of the cattle.

Sargent Heads Implement Men

Omaha (AP) — Robert Sargent of Beatrice has been named president of the Midwest Retail Farm Equipment Association.

Sargent was named at the group's Omaha meeting to succeed Hewitt Yountz of River-ton, Wyo.

Other officers elected were Don Klein of McCook, first vice president, and Ivor Samuelson of Trumbull, second vice president.

Weekly Grain Report

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Are farmers really going to cut back on production as they indicate they will in forms they have filled out and sent to their congressmen?

This question has caused a lot of jitters in the world's grain market. As support for the grassroots movement has developed, the major farm organizations have found themselves threatened by consumer suits, possible loss of tax privileges and the like, so the movement really hasn't been involving the old line groups.

This is the safest method of reducing of crops and in the long run it might be the most effective.

It could start disagreements between landlord and renter, but that will depend on the arrangement they have. Some farmers must produce a crop or fold because they are up to their eyebrows in debt.

The planting intentions report on March 17 is not likely to be a real answer to what farmers will do either, because the questionnaires were sent out just as the cutback movement began to snowball. If it does show a significant drop, you can bet the actual planting will be below that indicated in the report.

Weather will also be a major factor in what farmers plant, and those who do plant a full-sized crop can frustrate the buyers by holding the grain in their own storage.

Either way, it clearly shows that farmers flatly refuse to produce food at below the cost of production for an extended period of time. For one thing, their bankers, production credit associations and good sense won't let them.

Hengst is charged with two counts of wire fraud because the alleged cattle deals were consummated in telephone conversations.

In one count, Hengst is charged with ordering 80 cattle from George Ellis Brown of near Cody, Wyo., and agreeing to pay for them upon delivery in Grand Junction, then selling the cattle at a Grand Junction barn and keeping the money.

The second count charges that Hengst ordered 40 Hereford cattle by telephone from Calvin Coulter and the Coulter

Hereford Ranch of Bridgeport, Neb.

The indictment charges that Hengst sold the cattle at auction after receiving them at Grand Junction and then pocketed the money.

The indictment alleges that in both cases Hengst told cattle auction barn officials that he was the owner of the cattle.

What Do Many Doctors Use When They Suffer Pain And Itch Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues?

Exclusive formula gives prompt, temporary relief from such pain and itch in many cases. Helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues due to inflammation.

News about a most effective medication comes from a recent survey of doctors. Asked what they, themselves, use to relieve such painful symptoms, many of the doctors reporting named one particular medication they either use themselves or in their office practice.

This medication gives prompt relief for hours in many cases from pain and itching of hemorrhoidal tissues. And it actually helps shrink swelling of such tissues caused by infection. Tests by doctors showed this to be true.

The medication used was Preparation H®—the same exclusive formula you can buy at any drug counter without a prescription. Try doctor-tested Preparation H. There's no other formula like it. At drug counters everywhere. Ointment or suppositories.

Every Day St. Pat's Day

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Every day is St. Patrick's Day for Rita Overton who prides herself on her Irish heritage.

And that heritage is evidenced throughout the home of the Don Overtons, who offer true Irish hospitality to those who cross their threshold.

Having spent one St. Patrick's Day in Ireland, Mrs. Overton notes that March 17 there is strictly a Holy Day.

"St. Patrick's Day in Ireland is not a big 'bash' like it is in New York City or O'Neill, Nebraska," she said.

'Things Very Quiet'

"Things are very quiet — everyone goes to Mass and wears the shamrock and has his or her pint."

Everything closes on St. Patrick's Day, she recalls, adding that she and her husband had difficulty finding a place to eat that day.

Other than the closed shops and businesses, the only other observance of St. Patrick's Day which was evident in Ireland were the long lines of people walking and riding bicycles to Mass, and "everyone — young and old — had a sprig of Shamrock in their lapels, caps or tams."

The shamrock, which grows wild in Ireland, was used by St. Patrick to explain the trinity in bringing Christianity to the tiny country, she explained.

The Overtons said there were also parades in the larger cities like Cork and Dublin but that these are not like the St. Patrick's Day parade in New York City and are held primarily for the children.

Blarney Stone

Kissing the Blarney Stone on St. Patrick's Day was a highlight of that trip, Mrs. Overton recalls, and after accomplishing that feat she and her husband went to the Blarney Castle Hotel to eat lunch.

But it was closed — it was St. Patrick's Day.

The Overtons finally found a guest house and had a St. Patrick's Day lunch of ham and cheese sandwiches on a "simply delicious" bread which is called "brown bread" by the Irish.

She said they addressed several cards to send home on St. Patrick's Day but since the post office was not open "we gave the proprietor's little girl money for postage plus a 50¢ tip — and a month after we returned home the cards had not been received."

'Green Highway'

The Overtons also travelled the "green highway" to Waterford on St. Patrick's Day.

The Waterford glass for which Waterford is known is more plentiful for purchase in the United States than in Ireland, according to Mrs. Overton.

She said because of the income tax that must be paid on the sale of the glass in Ireland, the Irish export most of the beautiful Waterford crystal and Belleek china.

St. Patrick's Day dinner at the Tower Hotel in Waterford was described as "elegant" by Mrs. Overton, who herself features Irish coffee which tops off every Irish dinner.

Cream Hard To Find

She notes that it is difficult to find the thick country cream necessary for the cream to stay on top of the steaming hot coffee and Irish whiskey.

However, the thick cream is apparently not important to some people, she relates, as one of her guests promptly took a spoon and stirred the cream in before slipping the coffee from the stemmed whiskey goblet.

Although Mrs. Overton made attempts to seek out her family history in Ireland, she discovered that her maiden name of Sullivan was so common that it was practically an impossible task.

The Overtons stopped at a cemetery to see if there were any Sullivans and "the cemetery was full of Sullivans" the Overtons said.

Second Most Common

They later learned that Sullivan is the second most popular name in both the Counties Cork and Kerry.

"The Irish like good conversation with a laugh for leavening," but Mrs. Overton warns:

"Please don't talk to them about fairies or leprechauns as if you were amongst a credulous, superstitious and child-like people, for they are really a serious, hard headed people."

The Sullivans were very proud of their Irish heritage, Mrs. Overton notes, recalling that every St. Patrick's Day, charcoal was burned and a black cross drawn on the arm of each member of her family.

She said this was a traditional symbol to show they were proud of their heritage and their faith.

Although the Overtons don't have the Sullivan coat of arms on their door as other members of the Sullivan family who carry the Sullivan name, Mrs. Overton proudly displays in her home the coat of arms of her family.

Information Collected

Her celebration of St. Patrick's Day year round includes collecting information on Irish customs and history, putting together Sullivan family scrapbooks and entertaining guests in the true Irish fashion by using Irish china, crystal and linens.

Her husband says he's "just a bit" Irish and even though his wife celebrates St. Patrick's Day all year round, "I'm just Irish on St. Patrick's Day."

However, Ireland has become so much a part of their daily living, the Overtons are planning a third trip to Ireland this fall.

Although they took the previous trips on their own, this trip is being planned as part of a tour offered by the Irish American Culture Institute.

Who Is Biggest Fool, Left-Over Lady Asks

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been happily married for eight years. (No kids.) I thought we had a perfect marriage, and so did everybody else in town. We're in business here, and everybody knows us.

Last year a friend of my husband's was killed, and my husband started helping his widow. I was never invited to go along when he was helping her with whatever he was helping her with so much. He helped her over several weekends, so I finally told her that I needed him to help ME on weekends, but she didn't seem to care.

Finally, I found a love note in my husband's pocket. It was from her to him. Signed, too. I accidentally found it in his pocket. (This woman was supposed to have dearly loved her husband.) I know that this woman and my husband had no previous affair going while her husband was living.

Now, my husband has moved out of our house and is living with her. And on Main Street yet. I asked him if he wanted a divorce, and he said: "No." He is supporting me and living with her. He says I am a wonderful woman but he was just drawn to her. He knows if I divorced him, she would expect him to marry her, and he doesn't want that.

I have a question for you: Which of the three of us is the biggest fool? Me, for still caring for him? Him, for destroying his image in town? Or her, for letting him live with her and ruin her reputation?

DEAR LEFT: I would call it a three-way tie.

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman, not young anymore, and I am married to a man who is older than I am. He's in poor health, and stubborn as a mule. He refuses to make a will, and I am told that if he should die without making a will, the government will take half of everything he has, and there will be such a high tax on what is left over, I may have to go the poor farm. Is that true?

I don't have much education and wouldn't know how to talk to a lawyer, so please don't tell me to go to one. We are not rich, but we have worked and saved for nearly fifty years and I don't want to lose my security.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: The place to get the facts is from a lawyer. Don't worry about your lack of education. He (or she) will explain everything to you in language you can understand. And don't be ashamed to ask questions.

If the bank you do business with has a trust department, it can also be helpful. Don't believe rumors. Get the facts; you'll be glad you did.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DONALDA IN SHAKER HEIGHTS: Girls who wear see-through blouses are easily seen through.

- Fill goblet to within one inch of the brim with strong black coffee.
- Stir to dissolve sugar and mix the other ingredients.
- Top off with whipped cream, slightly aerated so the cream floats on top.

Note: Do not stir after adding cream, because the true flavor is obtained by drinking the hot coffee and the Irish whiskey through the cool cream.

Opening lead - queen of clubs.

Some hands played in the annual world championship are positively amazing. Consider this deal from last year's match between France and North America.

At the first table, where Bob Hamman was in four hearts for the U.S., West led a club. Hamman took the ace, returned a trump and, after East had followed low, went up with the ace.

Hamman then ruffed a club in dummy and led a trump, won by East with the queen — on which West discarded a club. East returned a club to the king, whereupon Hamman played a diamond to the king and led a trump towards his J-6.

East took the king and played his last club to partner's jack, Hamman discarding a spade, but that was the end of the matter. West, out of clubs, returned a spade and Hamman easily scored the rest of the tricks for 620 points.

At the second table, Bobby

Goldman, for the U.S., led a low spade against four hearts, thus preparing the way for the most extraordinary result of the tournament.

The French declarer took East's queen with the ace, played a club to the ace, led a trump to his ace, cashed the king of clubs on which he discarded a spade from dummy, and then played a low trump from his hand, hoping for a 3-2 division which would have given him ten easy tricks.

Disaster! East cashed the 10-K-Q of trumps, on which West discarded three diamonds, and that was the end of poor South. West cashed three spades and four clubs, and the French declarer went down six—600 points—on a hand where his opposite number at the previous table had made four hearts!

The U.S. team gained 1,220 points on this one deal!

Prelude To Spring

Call From White House Stuns Designer Capraro

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

"When they said the White House was calling, I started to go blank" the official designer of the nation's First Lady's clothes recalls excitedly.

Albert Capraro, in Lincoln for the annual Lincoln Symphony Guild Fashion Show Monday, said in an interview Sunday that "it all started because of an article in a Washington newspaper" about him and featuring some of his designs.

"The story appeared on Sunday and I received the call on Monday," the charming New York designer said, adding that after he was told Mrs. Ford wanted to see him at the White House "I didn't hear a thing."

Skyrocketing

Capraro, who showed his first collection in September and is already a skyrocketing success on 7th Avenue in New York, has been commissioned to do some official state gowns for Mrs. Ford.

On his second visit to the White House, Capraro said he met the President and Susan Ford "and I gained another customer."

Capraro, with the assistance of Nancy McCune, fashion coordinator and buyer for J. Bragg's, will present many of his designs at the Symphony Guild brunch Monday with Guild members serving as models.

'Nothing In Between'

According to Capraro, women's fashions this year have either the "big look" or the "very narrow" look, with "nothing in between."

Emphasizing chintz and voiles as well as soft matte jersey, Capraro says he likes his clothes to "look ultra-chic and feminine."

"I use the same fabrics you see in thousand dollar dresses and I find other ways to keep the price so low most people can't believe it."

The Capraro designs, which display much variety, start at $50 with the top price being about $200.

Less Inflation

The modern women expects the best at a price she can afford, Capraro says, adding "curiously enough, fashion has had less comparative inflation than any other area of our lives."

Bright colors of orange and green are featured in his crisp, young-looking sports clothes, and many combine the bright tones with white in awning-striped polished cotton for jumpsuits and skirts.

The Capraro look also includes one and two-piece tenty dresses with waistlines gathered close with straw or rope belts.

Visor Caps

He shows them with matching color visor caps and laced-high espadrilles.

The crepe de chine tent — the all-purpose perennial, has been adapted as Capraro's idea of the 1975 uniform. He prefers it with a yoke to keep the shoulders small and a lush bow neckline.

The chemise, narrower than the tent with equal ease and adaptability, is shown by Capraro in soft matte jersey and in crispened prints of small dimensions.

Long and Slinky

Capraro's evening designs vary from the long and slinky jersey to the romantic misty voiles and organzas. Some have the look of a two-piece with peplum top while others display capelet collars or off-shoulder ruffled necklines.

In addition to the pants for sportswear, Capraro makes wide use of the sheer and soft look in full pants for evening wear "but never for daytime," he adds.

NEBRASKA'S FIRST LADY . . . Pat Exon, models an apricot-colored border print in chiffon, designed for the nation's First Lady by Capraro, right.

How to get pleasure from a trick knee

Regardless of what people say, you can teach an old knee new tricks.

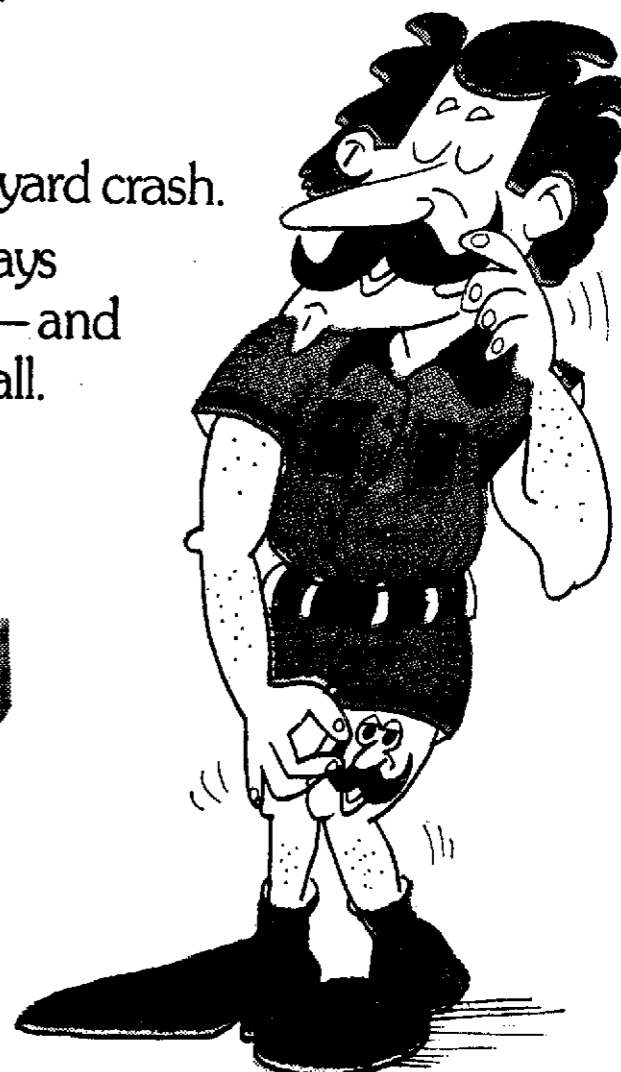

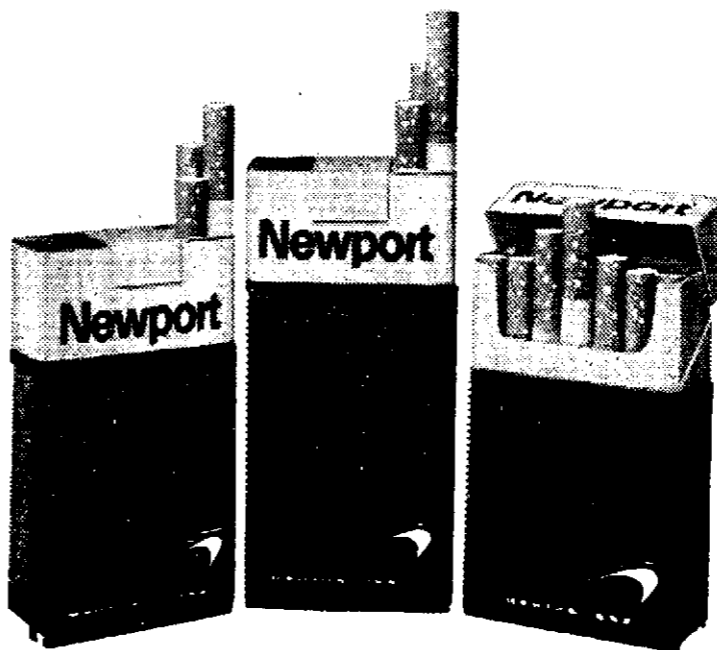

Begin with a simple one, like kneeling through a hoop.

Go on to bigger things, like Al Jolson impressions.

Now you're really ready to go:

- Wear bermuda shorts — a star needs the exposure.
- Find a girl with tennis elbow.
- Enter the olympics — the 100 yard crash.

And remember, a trick knee is always better than a trick neck, trichinosis — and it's certainly better than no trick at all.

For months, we've been telling Lincoln Electric customers about the virtues of the amazing new Electric Heat Pump. Now, read about the Heat Pump from some of your neighbors who know about it firsthand.

Prelude To Spring

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

"When they said the White House was calling, I started to go blank" the official designer of the nation's First Lady's clothes recalls excitedly.

Albert Capraro, in Lincoln for the annual Lincoln Symphony Guild Fashion Show Monday, said in an interview Sunday that "it all started because of an article in a Washington newspaper" about him and featuring some of his designs.

"The story appeared on Sunday and I received the call on Monday," the charming New York designer said, adding that after he was told Mrs. Ford wanted to see him at the White House "I didn't hear a thing."

Skyrocketing

Capraro, who showed his first collection in September and is already a skyrocketing success on 7th Avenue in New York, has been commissioned to do some official state gowns for Mrs. Ford.

On his second visit to the White House, Capraro said he met the President and Susan Ford "and I gained another customer."

Capraro, with the assistance of Nancy McCune, fashion coordinator and buyer for J. Bragg's, will present many of his designs at the Symphony Guild brunch Monday with Guild members serving as models.

'Nothing In Between'

According to Capraro, women's fashions this year have either the "big look" or the "very narrow" look, with "nothing in between."

Emphasizing chintz and voiles as well as soft matte jersey, Capraro says he likes his clothes to "look ultra-chic and feminine."

"I use the same fabrics you see in thousand dollar dresses and I find other ways to keep the price so low most people can't believe it."

The Capraro designs, which display much variety, start at $50 with the top price being about $200.

Less Inflation

The modern women expects the best at a price she can afford, Capraro says, adding "curiously enough, fashion has had less comparative inflation than any other area of our lives."

Bright colors of orange and green are featured in his crisp, young-looking sports clothes, and many combine the bright tones with white in awning-striped polished cotton for jumpsuits and skirts.

The Capraro look also includes one and two-piece tony dresses with waistlines gathered close with straw or rope belts.

Visor Caps

He shows them with matching color visor caps and laced-high espadrilles.

The crepe de chine tent — the all-purpose perennial, has been adapted as Capraro's idea of the 1975 uniform. He prefers it with a yoke to keep the shoulders small and a lush bow neckline.

The chemise, narrower than the tent with equal ease and adaptability, is shown by Capraro in soft matte jersey and in crispened prints of small dimensions.

Long and Slinky

Capraro's evening designs vary from the long and slinky jersey to the romantic misty voiles and organzas. Some have the look of a two-piece with peplum top while others display capelet collars or off-shoulder ruffled necklines.

In addition to the pants for sportswear, Capraro makes wide use of the sheer and soft look in full pants for evening wear "but never for daytime," he adds.

For months, we've been telling Lincoln Electric customers about the virtues of the amazing new Electric Heat Pump. Now, read about the Heat Pump from some of your neighbors who know about it firsthand.

Francis and Gertrude Schmehl say:

"...with a well-insulated house, and LES rates, I feel that this is an economical way to heat a house. Our bills averaged $42.00 per month in 1968-69 and $45.00 per month in 1973...and this provides for all electric services. Also, in the current fuel situation, it is rather nice to be 100% electric."

How to get pleasure from a trick knee

Regardless of what people say, you can teach an old knee new tricks.

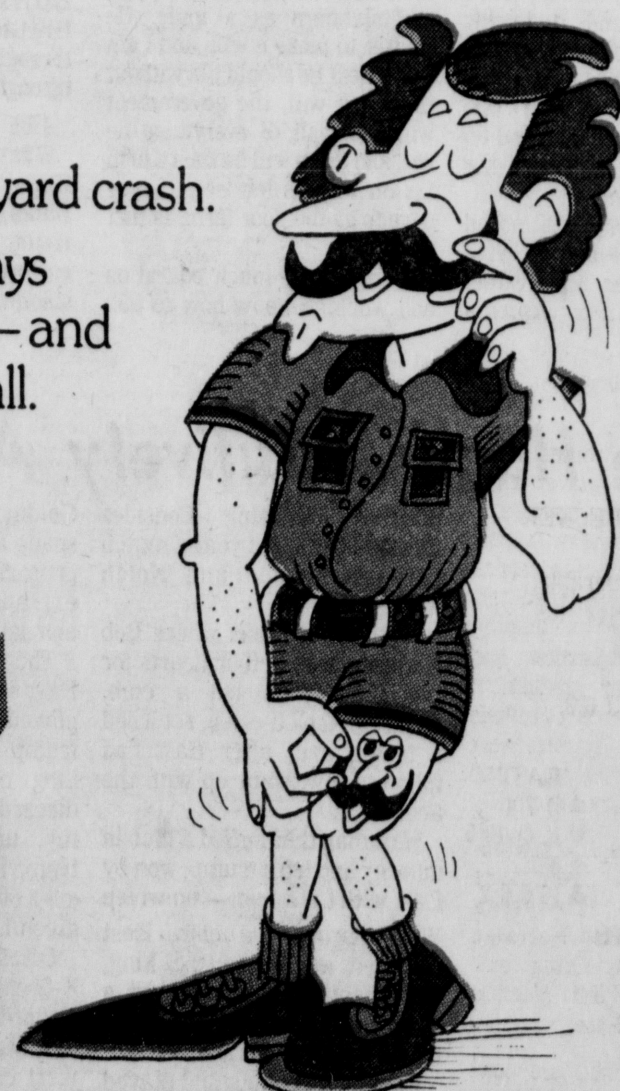

Begin with a simple one, like kneeling through a hoop.

Go on to bigger things, like Al Jolson impressions.

Now you're really ready to go:

- Wear bermuda shorts — a star needs the exposure.
- Find a girl with tennis elbow.
- Enter the olympics — the 100 yard crash.

And remember, a trick knee is always better than a trick neck, trichinosis — and it's certainly better than no trick at all.

Cipriano Praises Camps For Aiding NU Program

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

No one could accuse Joe Cipriano of being a "copy-cat." Yet the Nebraska basketball coach admits he obtained the idea of summer basketball camps from Stanford University.

"This is the ninth year for our summer basketball camps. We were the first in the Big Eight to start them," Cipriano noted. "But we really got the idea from Stanford where they have all-sports camps. They bring in football, basketball and baseball people and then you pick which one you (the player) wants to hear."

Many of the basketball standouts playing in the recent state high school tournaments in Lincoln have either been members of the Cipriano camps or will be participants this summer.

In fact, the basketball camp is open to any boy or girl, 10 years old through high school seniors. No high school graduates can attend.

The cost is $125 for the Sunday through Saturday sessions set for Lincoln and Scottsbluff. That fee covers all expenses, including room and board.

Speakers include high school and college coaches, including Cipriano and his assistants Lonnie Porter and Moe Iba. Past speakers have included professional basketball players Gus Johnson and Stu Lantz, (a former Husker) and former U.S. Olympic coach Henry Iba.

Although the coaches for this summer's camps have not been finalized, Denise Long, a former Iowa high school all-American player, will highlight the first girls basketball camp this summer.

Cipriano admits the camps have helped start high school prospects thinking about future careers as Huskers.

"Our camps have been good for basketball in Nebraska," Cipriano explained. "They get the players associated with the University, they live in our dorms (Abel Hall) and begin to see what our University is like."

Among former Huskers who attended the Nebraska Basketball School are Bob Gratto, Cal Christline, Chuck Jura, Mike Peterson, Brendy Lee and Tom Novak.

Four current Huskers once attended the summer sessions. They include Steve Erwin (a graduating senior), Bob Siegel, Terry Novak and Rickey Harris, a Denver native who attended a Scottsbluff session.

"With our Scottsbluff camps we get a chance to evaluate players from all over the state and also those from South Dakota, Colorado, North Dakota and Wyoming," Cipriano said.

The daily schedule for the players includes two hours of fundamentals in the morning; two hours in the afternoon for offensive and defensive drills and then game scrimmage situations are held at night.

"We keep studies on all the players and then we award a most valuable player to each group — grade school, junior and senior high schools," he added.

The dates for this summer's camps in Lincoln and Scottsbluff are May 25-31; June 1-7, 8-14, 15-21 and 22-28 and July 27-Aug. 2.

Champs Crete, Central Anxious for 'Next Year

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

Basketball fans are funny people. They can't give a state championship one day to soak in before they start to talk about next year.

Of course, state champions Omaha Central and Crete, No. 1 in the Sunday Journal and Star's final Class A and B basketball ratings, have good reason to look ahead.

Each returns a solid nucleus in bids for 1976 championship honors.

Central has visions of becoming the first Class A team in the 65-year history of the state basketball tournament to win three consecutive state championships.

Class A championships have been put together back-to-back 13 times, but no school has been able to achieve three in a row.

Lincoln High has produced back-to-back championships four times — in 1914-1915, 1917-1918, 1942-1943 and in 1958-1959 in Class AA.

Boys Town and Lincoln Northeast accomplished back-to-back titles on two occasions apiece.

Boys Town's came in 1956-1957 in Class AA and in 1965-1966 in Class A. Northeast produced Class A championships in 1949-1950 and duplicated the feat in 1967-1968.

Omaha Tech (1925-1926), St. Paul (1928-1929), Creighton Prep (1935-1936), Grand Island (1947-1948) and Omaha Holy Name (1957-1958) are others who have achieved back-to-back Class A state championships.

Central will build its bid for three straight around the talents of 6-7 junior pivot starter Raymond Williams and 6-3 junior swingman Lawrence Wilson, who saw considerable starting action this season.

Eagle fans are also enthused about Michael W. Johnson, who will be a sophomore this fall at Central.

Michael W. is touted as a better freshman player than John C. Johnson was three years ago. John C., a Sunday Journal and Star Super Stater last year as a junior, is Michael W.'s brother.

Crete will lose its leading scorer, Daryl Wittstruck, and Bill Bals through graduation. But coach Walt Harris' Cardinals will return three starters next season—Mark Erickson, Brad Wittstruck and Gary Lothrop.

If that isn't enough to give opposing coaches premature headaches, the late-season rumor mill indicated Nebraska City junior Steve Orton and Syracuse junior Jeff Nannen were moving to Crete.

Orton and Nannen are considered two of the Twin Rivers Conference's top players. Neither, however, is likely to end up in Crete.

Orton's father, who's in the canning business, had investigated the possibility of working at a Crete plant. But the family is scheduled to move to

Iowa Falls, Iowa, this summer. Nannen's cousin is former Crete Super Stater Randy Wenz. Apparently, the relationship prompted that rumor. There's

| 5—West Point CC (23-3) | 10—Seward (13-6) |

Comment — Holdrege (11-9) had late-season surge, but Seward's overall record was factor in deciding No. 10 spot. Seward was 2-point loser to Aurora in district semifinals and Holdrege 7-point loser to Minden in district final.

Creighton Prep's famed pyramid (left photo) built itself up to the top during halftime of the Class A state championship game Saturday night. An Omaha Central fan interceded and caused the pyramid to collapse. Fistcuffs ensued, but order was quickly restored without further incident. A Nebraska Coliseum official had given the Creighton Prep students permission to perform their traditional halftime ceremony.

MIAMI (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, a winner again, looked beyond his triumph in the Doral Open Golf Tournament. He looked beyond Johnny Miller, looked beyond his next start and fastened a steady gaze on the Augusta National Golf Course.

"It is always nice to win," Nicklaus said Sunday after he pulled away from the field with a solid four-under-par 68 and scored the 54th victory of his amazing career.

"I want to win; I try to win, every tournament I play.

"But it is particularly nice to win with all the fellows playing. It is particularly nice to win this close to Augusta."

Augusta, Ga., is the site of the annual Masters Tournament April 10-13. As always, that is Nicklaus' first big goal of the year. He'll play once more before then, but Augusta is very much on his mind.

"I always build my season around the major tournaments," Nicklaus said. "I always try to bring my game to a peak for Augusta."

And he's reaching that point.

"My swing pattern is better now than it has been for two or three years," Nicklaus said. "I'm putting reasonably well. My short game has fallen into place. I'm very pleased with it."

As for Miller, the young man who has challenged Nicklaus' position as the game's premier performer, Jack only noted:

"I think it's good for me and good for the game to have someone else playing really very well."

Miller never really got close in this one. He made a big run on the final round, but a balky putter kept him out of contention as Nicklaus acquired his first title of the season.

The triumph, nailed down on a 72-hole total of 276, 12-underpar on the lush, 7,028-yard Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club, served as another milestone for the man who has won almost everything the game can offer.

It tied him with Byron Nelson for fourth place on the all-time victory list. Nicklaus, at age 35, now trails only Sam Snead's 84 victories, Ben Hogan's 62 and Arnold Palmer's 61 in total career triumphs.

Nicklaus, stung by the lash of Johnny Miller's record-setting, early-season exploits, won this tourney by three strokes over Bert Yancey and Forrest Fezler.

He entered the final round in a tie for the lead with Fezler and pulled away on the 10th hole, engineering a two-stroke swing with a birdie against Fezler's bogey six. He led the rest of the way in brilliant, warm, sunny weather.

Fezler and the veteran Yancey, playing in the group behind Nicklaus, each got to within a single stroke of the lead late in the round, but Jack clinched it with a critical birdie on the treacherous 18th hole.

That gave him a two-shot margin—and Yancey and Fezler both bogeyed right behind him.

Yancey three-putted and Fezler got his second shot in the lake. Yancey finished with a 67 and Fezler had a 71 for the tie at 279.

Miller, a three-time winner this season and Player of the Year in 1974, closed with a 67 that could have been better and wound up in fourth place at 280.

Australian Bruce Crampton and 1974 Doral winner Buddy Allin were next at 281. Crampton had a 71 and Allin 69. Lee Trevino, a winner last week in the Citrus Open, had a final 71 and was well back at 283.

U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin and the 45-year-old Palmer did not compete.

"If I could have putted really good, I could have won the golf tournament," Miller said. He missed five consecutive birdie putts between eight and 12 feet in length on the 11th through 15th holes.

"My caddy and I were just tearing our hair," Miller said. "I just knew I was going to catch Jack."

But it didn't happen this time.

After the big swing on the 10th hole, no one caught him, although Yancey and Fezler made it close—for a moment.

Jack, who collapsed in the late going and blew the title in the Jackie Gleason Classic two weeks ago, opened the gate when he three-putted for a bogey on the 16th.

Yancey birdied the same hole moments later, and was just one back. Fezler threw his approach within six feet of the flag on the 17th and also got to within one.

Nicklaus now had to make four on the 18th to retain his lead.

He made three.

He lashed a three-iron shot from a difficult lie over the edge of the lake about 20 feet below the cup and then rammed in the putt that clinched it.

Oregon, Oral Roberts Among NIT Winners

NEW YORK (AP) — Ron Lee clicked off 21 points and triggered an electrifying second-half rally that powered Oregon past

St. Peter's, N.J., 85-79 Sunday night and shot the Ducks into the quarter-finals of the National Invitational Basketball Tournament.

The Pacific-8 Conference power earned a berth in Thursday night's quarters at Madison Square Garden against Oral Roberts, which earlier defeated Memphis State 97-95 as Anthony Roberts scored 29 points and Arnold Dugger fired in the game-

Earlier, South Carolina and Princeton won their way into the quarters of this 38th annual post-season classic. Mike Dunleavy directed South Carolina's slick offense and scored 22 points as the Gamecocks ripped Connecticut 71-61 in the first game of a doubleheader. Princeton walloped Holy Cross 84-63

Haralson Happy After Homecoming

LOUISVILLE (AP) — "I feel very loose in this place," said Drake's Larry Haralson after crowning his collegiate basketball career Sunday with a storied homecoming.

Haralson helped his Drake teammates feel at home, too, in Louisville's Freedom Hall as the Bulldogs surprised Arizona 83-76 for the National Commissioners Invitational Tournament title.

"We had an air of confidence from the start," said Haralson, a Louisville product who powered his high school team to two straight state titles in the same basketball arena.

"It didn't matter who we were playing," said Haralson. "We just felt like we could beat anyone."

The lightly regarded Bulldogs stormed past three straight opponents—Southern California, Bowling Green and Arizona—to claim the new tournament's second championship.

"We had suffered together for so long that once we started winning it all mushroomed," said Drake's rookie coach, Bob Ortel.

He credited a collapsing defensive play with pinching off Arizona's inside game.

Drake fans wearing "I Believe" buttons, Ortel grinned as a booster shouted "Bring on Indiana!"

The Bulldogs, led by Terry McKissick's 24 points and Haralson's 20, converted 23 of 24 free throws to deny Arizona any openings in the closing minutes of the nationally televised game.

"I've never constructed any team of mine to collapse so much on defense," said Ortel, "but I don't like to be predictable."

Losing coach Fred Snowden, whose team outscored Drake by five field goals, said "We shot extremely well but you can't win when you get outscored like that from the free throw line."

The Wildcats went more than six minutes without a field goal at one point in the second half. It was Drake's biggest victory since finishing third in the 1969 NCAA championship finals.

Many of the basketball camp is open to any boy or girl, 10 years old through high school seniors. No high school graduates can attend.

The cost is $125 for the Sunday through Saturday sessions set for Lincoln and Scottsbluff. That fee covers all expenses, including room and board.

Speakers include high school and college coaches, including Cipriano and his assistants Lonnie Porter and Moe Iba. Past speakers have included professional basketball players Gus Johnson and Stu Lantz, (a former Husker) and former U.S. Olympic coach Henry Iba.

Although the coaches for this summer's camps have not been finalized, Denise Long, a former Iowa high school all-American player, will highlight the first girls basketball camp this summer.

Cipriano admits the camps have helped start high school prospects thinking about future careers as Huskers.

"Our camps have been good for basketball in Nebraska," Cipriano explained. "They get the players associated with the University, they live in our dorms (Abel Hall) and begin to see what our University is like."

Among former Huskers who attended the Nebraska Basketball School are Bob Gratoop, Cal Christline, Chuck Jura, Mike Peterson, Brendy Lee and Tom Novak.

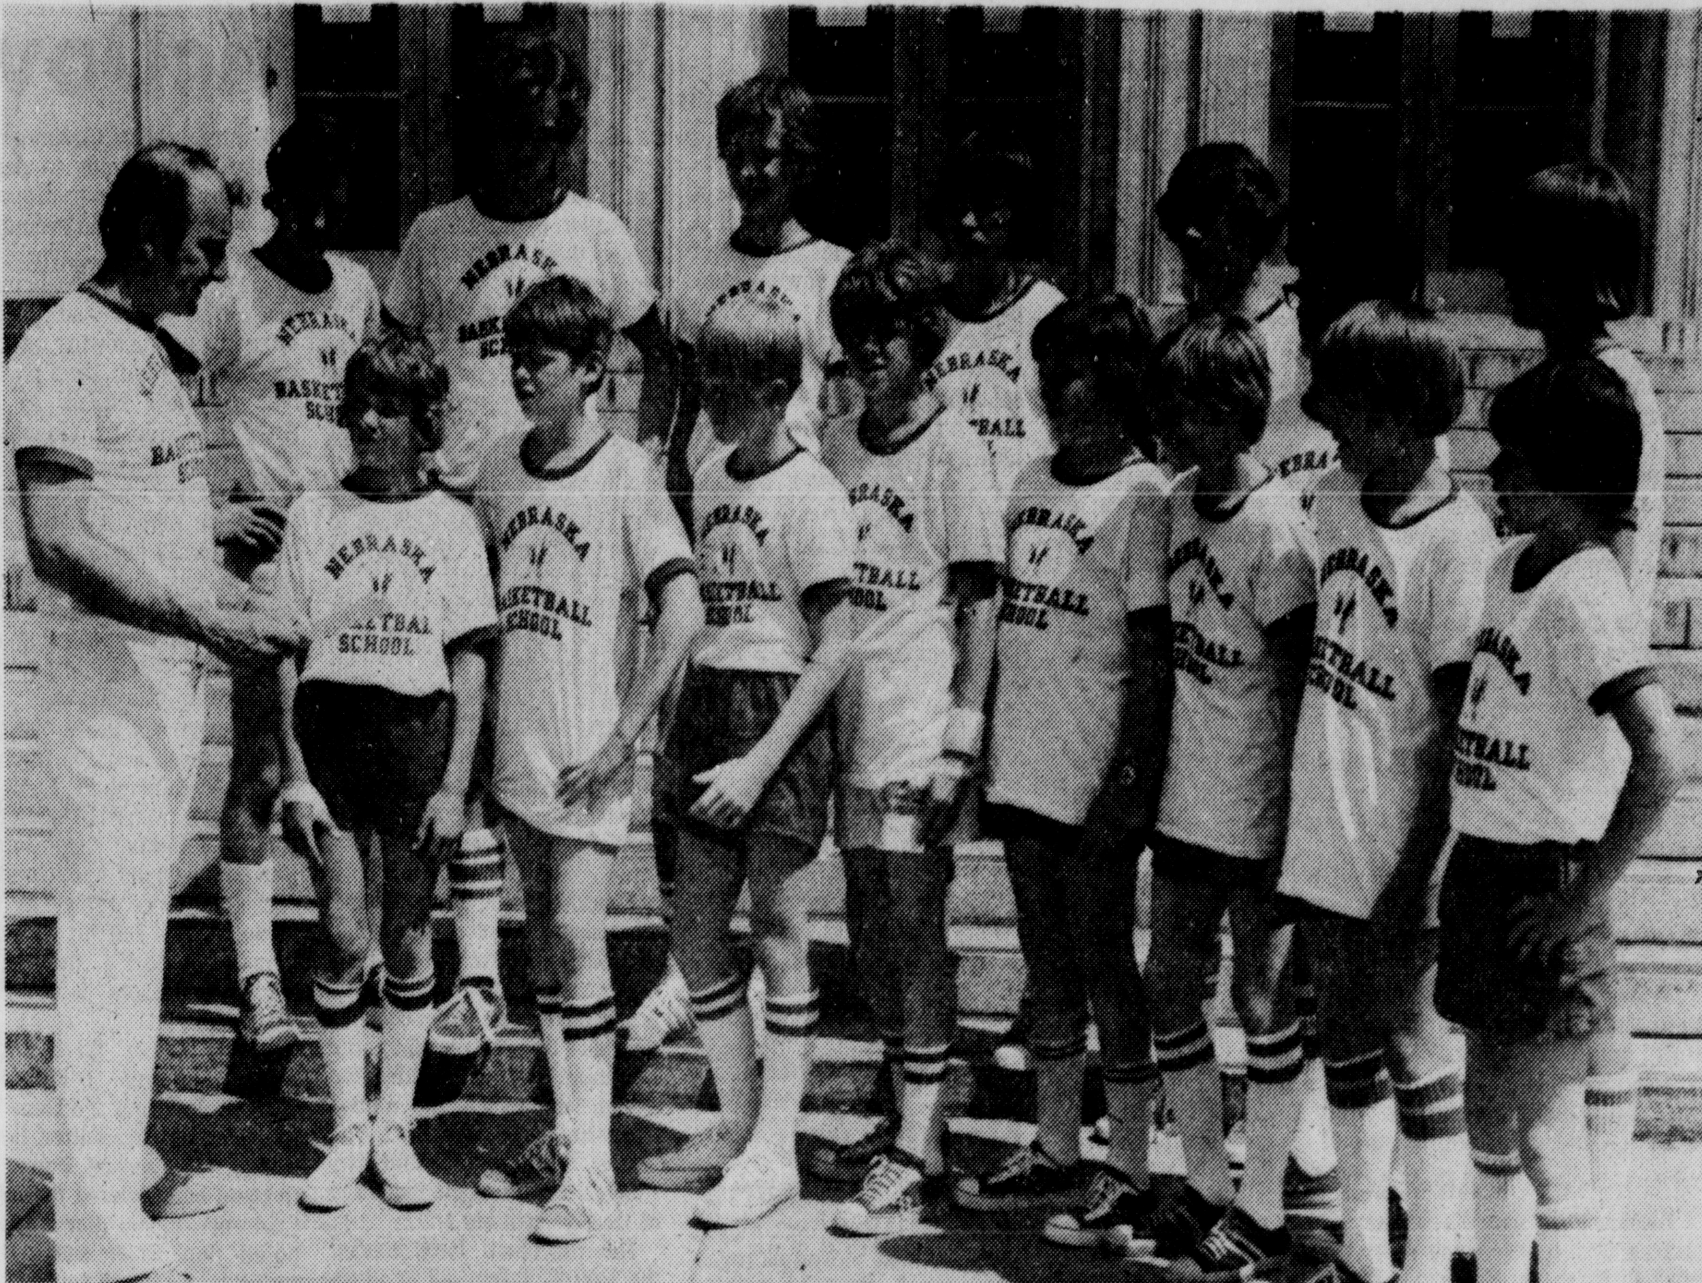

Four current Huskers once attended the summer sessions. They include Steve Erwin (a graduating senior), Bob Siegel, Terry Novak and Ricky Harris, a Denver native who attended a Scottsbluff session.

"With our Scottsbluff camps we get a chance to evaluate players from all over the state and also those from South Dakota, Colorado, North Dakota and Wyoming," Cipriano said.

The daily schedule for the players includes two hours of fundamentals in the morning; two hours in the afternoon for offensive and defensive drills and then game scrimmage situations are held at night.

"We keep studies on all the players and then we award a most valuable player to each group — grade school, junior and senior high schools," he added.

The dates for this summer's camps in Lincoln and Scottsbluff are May 25-31; June 1-7, 8-14, 15-21 and 22-28 and July 27-Aug. 2.

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

Basketball fans are funny people. They can't give a state championship one day to soak in before they start to talk about next year.

Of course, state champions Omaha Central and Crete, No. 1 in the Sunday Journal and Star's final Class A and B basketball ratings, have good reason to look ahead.

Each returns a solid nucleus in bids for 1976 championship honors.

Central has visions of becoming the first Class A team in the 65-year history of the state basketball tournament to win three consecutive state championships.

Class A championships have been put together back-to-back 13 times, but no school has been able to achieve three in a row.

Lincoln High has produced back-to-back championships four times — in 1914-1915, 1917-1918, 1942-1943 and in 1958-1959 in Class AA.

Boys Town and Lincoln Northeast accomplished back-to-back titles on two occasions apiece.

Boys Town's came in 1956-1957 in Class AA and in 1965-1966 in Class A. Northeast produced Class A championships in 1949-1950 and duplicated the feat in 1967-1968.

Omaha Tech (1925-1926), St. Paul (1928-1929), Creighton Prep (1935-1936), Grand Island (1947-1948) and Omaha Holy Name (1957-1958) are others who have achieved back-to-back Class A state championships.

Central will build its bid for three straight around the talents of 6-7 junior pivot starter Raymond Williams and 6-3 junior swingman Lawrence Wilson, who saw considerable starting action this season.

Eagle fans are also enthused about Michael W. Johnson, who will be a sophomore this fall at Central.

Michael W. is touted as a better freshman player than John C. Johnson was three years ago. John C., a Sunday Journal and Star Super Stater last year as a junior, is Michael W.'s brother.

Crete will lose its leading scorer, Daryl Wittstruck, and Bill Bals through graduation. But coach Walt Harris' Cardinals will return three starters next season—Mark Erickson, Brad Wittstruck and Gary Lothrop.

If that isn't enough to give opposing coaches premature headaches, the late-season rumor mill indicated Nebraska City junior Steve Orton and Syracuse junior Jeff Nannen were moving to Crete.

Orton and Nannen are considered two of the Twin Rivers Conference's top players. Neither, however, is likely to end up in Crete.

Orton's father, who's in the canning business, had investigated the possibility of working at a Crete plant. But the family is scheduled to move to

Iowa Falls, Iowa, this summer. Nannen's cousin is former Crete Super Stater Randy Wenz. Apparently, the relationship prompted that rumor. There's

| 5—Omaha Westside (14-8) | 10—Omaha North (10-9) |

Comment — Omaha Burke and Lincoln Southeast were strong late-season finishers. No. 7 Lincoln East defeated three teams rated above it in final top 10 — Burke, Westside and North Platte.

Class B

- | | |
|------------------------|--------------------------|
| 1—Crete (20-4) | 6—Fairbury (19-4) |
| 2—Omaha Tech (20-6) | 7—Sidney (18-5) |

| 4—Ord (19-3) | 9—Columbus Scotus (19-5) |
| 5—West Point CC (23-3) | 10—Seward (13-6) |

Comment — Holdrege (11-9) had late-season surge, but Seward's overall record was factor in deciding No. 10 spot. Seward was 2-point loser to Aurora in district semifinals and Holdrege 7-point loser to Minden in district final.

Crete's Daryl Wittstruck (right photo), the state tournament's leading scorer with 72 points, checks the scorebook in the locker room Saturday following the Cards' Class B championship win over Omaha Tech. Daryl's younger brother, Brad (face hidden), is equally interested in the final scoring figures. Brad is one of three Crete starters slated to return next season.

Doral Winner Nicklaus Eyeing Masters

MIAMI (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, a winner again, looked beyond his triumph in the Doral Open Golf Tournament. He looked beyond Johnny Miller, looked beyond his next start and fastened a steady gaze on the Augusta National Golf Course.

"It is always nice to win," Nicklaus said Sunday after he pulled away from the field with a solid four-under-par 68 and scored the 54th victory of his amazing career.

"I want to win; I try to win, every tournament I play. "But it is particularly nice to win with all the fellows playing. It is particularly nice to win this close to Augusta."

Augusta, Ga., is the site of the annual Masters Tournament April 10-13. As always, that is Nicklaus' first big goal of the year. He'll play once more before then, but Augusta is very much on his mind.

"I always build my season around the major tournaments," Nicklaus said. "I always try to bring my game to a peak for Augusta."

And he's reaching that point. "My swing pattern is better now than it has been for two or three years," Nicklaus said. "I'm putting reasonably well. My short game has fallen into place. I'm very pleased with it."

As for Miller, the young man who has challenged Nicklaus' position as the game's premier performer, Jack only noted:

"I think it's good for me and good for the game to have someone else playing really very well."

Miller never really got close in this one. He made a big run on the final round, but a balky putter kept him out of contention as Nicklaus acquired his first title of the season.

The triumph, nailed down on a 72-hole total of 276, 12-underpar on the lush, 7,028-yard Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club, served as another milestone for the man who has won almost everything the game can offer.

It tied him with Byron Nelson for fourth place on the all-time victory list. Nicklaus, at age 35, now trails only Sam Snead's 84 victories, Ben Hogan's 62 and Arnold Palmer's 61 in total career triumphs.

Nicklaus, stung by the lash of Johnny Miller's record-setting, early-season exploits, won this tourney by three strokes over Bert Yancey and Forrest Fezler.

He entered the final round in a tie for the lead with Fezler and pulled away on the 10th hole, engineering a two-stroke swing with a birdie against Fezler's bogey six. He led the rest of the way in brilliant, warm, sunny weather.

Fezler and the veteran Yancey, playing in the group behind Nicklaus, each got to within a single stroke of the lead late in the round, but Jack clinched it with a critical birdie on the treacherous 18th hole.

That gave him a two-shot margin—and Yancey and Fezler both bogeyed right behind him.

Yancey three-putted and Fezler got his second shot in the lake. Yancey finished with a 67 and Fezler had a 71 for the tie at 279.

Miller, a three-time winner this season and Player of the Year in 1974, closed with a 67 that could have been better and wound up in fourth place at 280.

Australian Bruce Crampton and 1974 Doral winner Buddy Allin were next at 281. Crampton had a 71 and Allin 69. Lee Trevino, a winner last week in the Citrus Open, had a final 71 and was well back at 283.

U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin and the 45-year-old Palmer did not compete.

"If I could have putted really good, I could have won the golf tournament," Miller said. He missed five consecutive birdie putts between eight and 12 feet in length on the 11th through 15th holes.

"My caddy and I were just tearing our hair," Miller said. "I just knew I was going to catch Jack."

But it didn't happen this time. After the big swing on the 10th hole, no one caught him, although Yancey and Fezler made it close—for a moment.

Jack, who collapsed in the late going and blew the title in the Jackie Gleason Classic two weeks ago, opened the gate when he three-putted for a bogey on the 16th.

Yancey birdied the same hole moments later, and was just one back. Fezler threw his approach within six feet of the flag on the 17th and also got to within one.

Nicklaus now had to make four on the 18th to retain his lead.

He made three.

He lashed a three-iron shot from a difficult lie over the edge of the lake about 20 feet below the cup and then rammed in the putt that clinched it.

Oregon, Oral Roberts Among NIT Winners

NEW YORK (AP) — Ron Lee checked off 21 points and triggered an electrifying second-half rally that powered Oregon past

St. Peter's, N.J., 85-79 Sunday night and shot the Ducks into the quarter-finals of the National Invitational Basketball Tournament.

The Pacific-8 Conference power earned a berth in Thursday night's quarters at Madison Square Garden against Oral Roberts, which earlier defeated Memphis State 97-95 as Anthony Roberts scored 29 points and Arnold Dugger fired in the game-winning shot at the buzzer.

Earlier, South Carolina and Princeton won their way into the quarters of this 38th annual post-season classic. Mike Dunleavy directed South Carolina's slick offense and scored 22 points as the Gamecocks ripped Connecticut 71-61 in the first game of a doubleheader. Princeton walloped Holy Cross 84-63

Haralson Happy After Homecoming

LOUISVILLE (AP) — "I feel very loose in this place," said Drake's Larry Haralson after crowning his collegiate basketball career Sunday with a storied homecoming.

Haralson helped his Drake teammates feel at home, too, in Louisville's Freedom Hall as the Bulldogs surprised Arizona 83-76 for the National Commissioners Invitational Tournament title.

"We had an air of confidence from the start," said Haralson, a Louisville product who powered his high school team to two straight state titles in the same basketball arena.

"It didn't matter who we were playing," said Haralson. "We just felt like we could beat anyone."

The lightly regarded Bulldogs stormed past three straight opponents—Southern California, Bowling Green and Arizona—to claim the new tournament's second championship.

"We had suffered together for so long that once we started winning it all mushroomed," said Drake's rookie coach, Bob Ortel.

He credited a collapsing defensive play with pinching off Arizona's inside game.

Drake fans wearing "I Believe" buttons, Ortel grinned as a booster shouted "Bring on Indiana!"

The Bulldogs, led by Terry McKissick's 24 points and Haralson's 20, converted 23 of 24 free throws to deny Arizona any openings in the closing minutes of the nationally televised game.

"I've never constructed any team of mine to collapse so much on defense," said Ortel, "but I don't like to be predictable."

Losing coach Fred Snowden, whose team outscored Drake by five field goals, said "We shot extremely well but you can't win when you get outscored like that from the free throw line."

The Wildcats went more than six minutes without a field goal at one point in the second half. It was Drake's biggest victory since finishing third in the 1969 NCAA championship finals.

BASKETBALL

The third annual National Commissioners Invitational Basketball Tournament will be played next year in Louisville, Ky.

The official scorer apparently deserves a big assist for LeMoyne-Owen College of Memphis, Tenn., winning this year's NCAA Division III title game. He credited Glassboro's high-scoring Greg Ackles with three personal fouls when he only had two.

Seven members of the Israeli National team scored in double figures Sunday as the Israelis closed their American tour with a 101-87 win over Navy.

TENNIS

Top-seeded Jimmy Connors rallied strongly in the last two sets Sunday and won the local Independent Players Association tennis tournament with a 3-6, 6-3, 6-0 victory over Jan Kodes at Hampton, Va.

Unseeded Mark Cox completed his march through the seeded players, defeating third-seeded Dick Stockton, 6-2, 7-6 Sunday to win the World Championship Tennis Red Group tournament at Ashtabur, Md.

Arthur Ashe turned back Sweden's Bjorn Borg, 6-4, 7-6 Sunday to win the Green Group World Tennis Championship Tournament and the first prize of $12,000 in Munich.

The Colombian Tennis Federation said the country will refuse to play South Africa in the North American Zone final of the Davis Cup competition because of its apartheid policies.

CAR RACING

Richard Petty scored a runaway victory in the Southeastern 500 stock car race, averaging a record 97.053 miles-per-hour in a Dodge to finish six laps ahead of Benny Parsons in Bristol, Tenn.

Russell Mendez, 35, of Tampa operating a rocket-powered vehicle at more than 250 M.P.H. was killed Sunday when he slammed into a guardrail during the sixth annual Gatornation Drag Race championships at Gainesville, Fla.

Johnny Rutherford of Fort Worth, Tex., regained the lead on the 83rd lap and breezed to an easy victory Sunday in the United States Auto Club's Phoenix 150.

Tom Pryce of Wales, driving a Shadow DN5 Ford, won the 40-lap 106-mile race of champions at Brands Hatch, England in 55 minutes, 53.5 seconds for an average speed of 113.89 miles-per-hour.

OTHER SPORTS

Pitcher Tug McGraw of the Philadelphia Phillies is still suffering from the back and shoulder miseries he had with the New York Mets and will likely undergo surgery.

Jockey Mary Bacon will be asked Monday to substantiate her charges that horse drug testing is out of control at the Fair Grounds in New Orleans.

Alexis Arguello of Nicaragua says his World Boxing Association featherweight defense against Leonel Hernandez of Venezuela was not an easy fight, but the result appeared to contradict his opinion.

Mike White of Lincoln remained in fourth place in the all-events with 1,962 after Sunday's competition in the 79-day American Bowling Congress Tournament.

Wood, McDowell Look Good

By The Associated Press

Veteran knuckleball ace Wilbur Wood and comeback-bound foreballer Sam McDowell continued their hot spring pitching Sunday.

Wood allowed just one hit while hurling four more scoreless innings—giving him 12 thus far—as the Chicago White Sox whipped the New York Mets 6-1 in an exhibition baseball game. But Wood, a 20-game winner the last four years, has nothing to worry about... unless his butterfly loses its flutter.

McDowell, a nonstarter pitcher trying to make a comeback with Pittsburgh, fired three shutout innings—he has six in two spring outings—but the Pirates bowed 12-3 to the New York Yankees, who released the 32-year-old lefty following a 1-6 record and 4.69 earned run average in 1974.

Elsewhere, the red-hot Montreal Expos edged a split squad of Houston Astros 3-2 for their seventh victory in a row, the Los Angeles Dodgers trounced the rest of the Astros 7-3, the Baltimore Orioles pounded the Atlanta Braves 8-5, the Kansas City Royals long-bailed the Texas Rangers 7-5 and the Philadelphia Phillies nipped the St. Louis Cardinals 1-0.

The Cincinnati Reds shaded the Detroit Tigers 6-5 in 10 innings, the Minnesota Twins beat the Boston Red Sox 5-1, a split squad of California Angels downed the Milwaukee Brewers 4-2, the Oakland A's routed the rest of the Angels 13-4, the San Francisco Giants trimmed the Chicago Cubs 6-1 and the San Diego Padres beat the Cleveland Indians 4-2.

Mac Scarce of the Mets bore the brunt of the White Sox attack, although he helped things along by walking six men in the first inning and wild-pitching two of them home. Buddy Bradford tagged him for a two-run homer in the second.

While McDowell was shackling his former teammates, the Yankees erupted for five runs against Bruce Kison in the second inning and five more against rookie Rich Standart in the eighth, including Alex Johnson's two-run homer.

Montreal rallied for three runs in the eighth inning to defeat Houston. Tony Scott drove in two with a single and eventually scored on Juan Navarrete's single while Dave McNally made his spring debut and pitched three innings, allowing one unearned run. Geoff Zahn pitched four scoreless innings as Los Angeles defeated Houston's other squad.

Don Baylor homered twice as Baltimore raked Atlanta's Phil Niekro for 12 hits and all eight runs in four innings. Two-run homers by Frank White, John Mayberry and Hal McRae and Amos Otis' RBI triple powered Kansas City over Texas.

Philadelphia's Steve Carlton, Dick Ruthven and Joe Hoerner combined to blank St. Louis on eight hits. Merv Rettenmund hustled a routine single into a 10th-inning double and scored on Joel Youngblood's single as Cincinnati beat Detroit. Rookie Lyman Bostock's three hits helped Minnesota defeat Boston.

Morris Nettles' three singles helped California defeat Milwaukee. Joe Rudi and Gene Tenace belted consecutive home runs in the second inning as Oakland overpowered the other California squad. Chris Speier poled San Francisco's first spring homer against the Cubs. Five pitchers, including Sonny Siebert, allowed five hits in hurling San Diego by Cleveland.

Axelson said he will make the recommendation at a meeting of the Kings Board of Directors Monday.

Princeton Plays South Carolina

behind 18-point performances by Barnes Hauptfuhrer and Mark Hartley.

South Carolina goes against Princeton Thursday night.

Oregon, a big favorite against St. Peter's, didn't look that way in the first half, trailing by 14 points at one time and losing 43-34 at the half.

Then Lee, termed by some the premier guard of the Pac-8, got the Ducks rolling by triggering a 12-point streak that gave them a 46-43 lead with three minutes gone in the second half.

The teams battled on even terms until nine minutes remained. Then Lee helped the Ducks outscore the Peacocks 17-6 to give them an 81-71 lead with less than four minutes left. That turned out to be the ballgame.

Stu Jackson added 16 points for Oregon, 19-8 Adam Solomon of St. Peter's was the game's high scorer with 24 points as the Peacocks wound up 15-12.

The Oral Roberts-Memphis State game created excitement from the opening gun and never let up until the final buzzer with both teams using a wide open brand of basketball and shooting the eyes out of the basket.

Oral Roberts appeared to have taken charge with an 89-81 lead with about five minutes left, but Memphis State came back behind the shooting of their high scorer Alvin Wright. The game was tied three times before the dramatic ending. Memphis State went ahead 95-93 on a basket by Ed Wilson with 1:50 left, then Anthony Roberts tied it with a shot at the 1:15 mark.

The Titans set up their last play with eight seconds remaining. Dugger got the ball on the inbounds pass and drove for the key where he unloaded his game-winning jumper.

Dugger wound up with 16 points and Lewis Collins had 18 for Oral Roberts, 20-7. Wright had 20 points for Memphis State, also 20-7.

Hauptfuhrer scored 11 of his points to lead Princeton to a 37-27 halftime lead and the Tigers, utilizing an unusually high number of foul shots, continued to roll it up in the second half.

A 13-5 burst at the start of the second half triggered the Tigers to a runaway 50-32 margin with six minutes gone and Princeton rolled up a lead as high as 25 points before the game's end.

Before the game was over, it disintegrated into a contest of walking back and forth to the foul line while the referees called fouls for everything in sight. In all, they called 44 fouls, 26 against Holy Cross.

A crowd announced at 11:03 but appearing more likely in the 7,000-8,000 area watched Princeton run its record to 19-8. Bill Doran scored 12 points to lead Holy Cross as the Crusaders closed out their season at 20-8.

South Carolina held a 39-27 lead at the half but lost most of it as the Huskies charged back behind Tony Hanson, their higher scorer with 17 points and co-rebound leader with 13.

Then Dunleavy took charge of the game from his backcourt position, triggering a hot scoring string that helped the Gamecocks move into a 69-58 lead with three minutes left. Dunleavy scored five of his game-high points in a stretch when South Carolina outscored the Huskies 22-8.

Alex English scored 21 points for South Carolina, 19-8. John Thomas had 14 points and 13 rebounds for Connecticut, which wound up its season with an 18-10 record.

Wood, McDowell Look Good

By The Associated Press

Veteran knuckleball ace Wilbur Wood and comeback-bound foreballer Sam McDowell continued their hot spring pitching Sunday.

Wood allowed just one hit while hurling four more scoreless innings—giving him 12 thus far—as the Chicago White Sox whipped the New York Mets 6-1 in an exhibition baseball game. But Wood, a 20-game winner the last four years, has nothing to worry about... unless his butterfly loses its flutter.

McDowell, a nonroster player trying to make a comeback with Pittsburgh, fired three shutout innings—he has six in two spring outings—but the Pirates bowed 12-3 to the New York Yankees, who released the 32-year-old lefty following a 1-6 record and 4.69 earned run average in 1974.

Elsewhere, the red-hot Montreal Expos edged a split squad of Houston Astros 3-2 for their seventh victory in a row, the Los Angeles Dodgers trounced the rest of the Astros 7-3, the Baltimore Orioles pounded the Atlanta Braves 8-5, the Kansas City Royals long-balled the Texas Rangers 7-5 and the Philadelphia Phillies nipped the St. Louis Cardinals 1-0.

The Cincinnati Reds shaded the Detroit Tigers 6-5 in 10 innings, the Minnesota Twins beat the Boston Red Sox 5-1, a split squad of California Angels downed the Milwaukee Brewers 4-2, the Oakland A's routed the rest of the Angels 13-4, the San Francisco Giants trimmed the Chicago Cubs 6-1 and the San Diego Padres beat the Cleveland Indians 4-2.

Mac Scarce of the Mets bore the brunt of the White Sox attack, although he helped things along by walking six men in the first inning and wild-pitching two of them home. Buddy Bradford tagged him for a two-run homer in the second.

While McDowell was shackling his former teammates, the Yankees erupted for five runs against Bruce Kison in the second inning and five more against rookie Rich Standart in the eighth, including Alex Johnson's two-run homer.

Montreal rallied for three runs in the eighth inning to defeat Houston. Tony Scott drove in two with a single and eventually scored on Juan Navarrete's single while Dave McNally made his spring debut and pitched three innings, allowing one unearned run. Geoff Zahn pitched four scoreless innings as Los Angeles defeated Houston's other squad.

Don Baylor homered twice as Baltimore raked Atlanta's Phil Niekro for 12 hits and all eight runs in four innings. Two-run homers by Frank White, John Maberry and Hal McRae and Amos Otis' RBI triple powered Kansas City over Texas.

Philadelphia's Steve Carlton, Dick Ruthven and Joe Hoerner combined to blank St. Louis on eight hits. Merv Rettenmund hustled a routine single into a 10th-inning double and scored on Cincinnati beat Detroit. Rookie Lyman Bostock's three hits helped Minnesota defeat Boston.

Morris Nettles' three singles helped California defeat Milwaukee. Joe Rudi and Gene Tenace belted consecutive home runs in the second inning as Oakland overpowered the other California squad. Chris Speier poled San Francisco's first spring homer against the Cubs. Five pitchers, including Sonny Siebert, allowed five hits in hurling San Diego by Cleveland.

Princeton Plays South Carolina

behind 18-point performances by Barnes Hauptfuhrer and Mark Hartley.

South Carolina goes against Princeton Thursday night.

Oregon, a big favorite against St. Peter's, didn't look that way in the first half, trailing by 14 points at one time and losing 43-34 at the half.

Then Lee, termed by some the premier guard of the Pac-8, got the Ducks rolling by triggering a 12-point streak that gave them a 46-43 lead with three minutes gone in the second half.

The teams battled on even terms until nine minutes remained. Then Lee helped the Ducks outscore the Peacocks 17-6 to give them an 81-71 lead with less than four minutes left. That turned out to be the ballgame.

Stu Jackson added 16 points for Oregon, 19-8. Adam Solomon of St. Peter's was the game's high scorer with 24 points as the Peacocks wound up 15-12.

The Oral Roberts-Memphis State game created excitement from the opening gun and never let up until the final buzzer with both teams using a wide open brand of basketball and shooting the eyes out of the basket.

Oral Roberts appeared to have taken charge with an 89-81 lead with about five minutes left, but Memphis State came back behind the shooting of their high scorer Alvin Wright. The game was tied three times before the dramatic ending. Memphis State went ahead 95-93 on a basket by Ed Wilson with 1:50 left, then Anthony Roberts tied it with a shot at the 1:15 mark.

The Titans set up their last play with eight seconds remaining. Dugger got the ball on the inbound pass and drove for the key where he unloaded his game-winning jumper.

Dugger wound up with 16 points and Lewis Collins had 18 for Oral Roberts, 20-7. Wright had 20 points for Memphis State, also 20-7.

Hauptfuhrer scored 11 of his points to lead Princeton to a 37-27 halftime lead and the Tigers, utilizing an unusually high number of foul shots, continued to roll it up in the second half.

A 13-5 burst at the start of the second half triggered the Tigers to a runaway 50-32 margin with six minutes gone and Princeton rolled up a lead as high as 25 points before the game's end.

Before the game was over, it disintegrated into a contest of walking back and forth to the foul line while the referees called fouls for everything in sight. In all, they called 44 fouls, 26 against Holy Cross.

A crowd announced at 11,603 but appearing more likely in the 7,000-8,000 area watched Princeton run its record to 19-8. Bill Doran scored 12 points to lead Holy Cross as the Crusaders closed out their season at 20-8.

South Carolina held a 39-27 lead at the half but lost most of it as the Huskies charged back behind Tony Hanson, their higher scorer with 17 points and co-rebound leader with 13.

Then Dunleavy took charge of the game from his backcourt position, triggering a hot scoring string that helped the Gamecocks move into a 69-58 lead with three minutes left. Dunleavy scored five of his game-high points in a stretch when South Carolina outscored the Huskies 22-8.

Alex English scored 21 points for South Carolina, 19-8. John Thomas had 14 points and 13 rebounds for Connecticut, which wound up its season with an 18-10 record.

Nation's Top Four Clubs Still Aim For NCAA Title

By The Associated Press

Led by unbeaten Indiana... easily... and revenge-bent UCLA... which did it the hard way... the nation's top four teams are still in the running for college basketball's top prize—the National Collegiate championship.

Top-ranked Indiana, runner-up UCLA, third-rated Louisville and No. 4 Maryland came through Saturday with victories that sent them to the various NCAA regionals next Thursday and Saturday.

Joining them in the winner's circle were three other members of The Associated Press Top Ten—No. 6 Kentucky, seventh-ranked North Carolina and No. 8 Arizona State. The only Top Ten losers were No. 5 Marquette and No. 10 Alabama and they bowed to Kentucky and Arizona State respectively.

North Carolina State, last year's champion and the nation's ninth-ranked team, failed to win the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament and was not selected to defend its crown.

This is the line-up for the regionals, with the four eventual winners advancing to the finals at San Diego March 29-31.

East Regional at Providence, R.I.—North Carolina vs. Syracuse and Boston College vs. Kansas State.

Midwest at Dayton, Ohio—Indiana vs. Oregon State and Kentucky vs. Central Michigan.

Midwest at Las Cruces, N.M.—Louisville vs. Cincinnati and Maryland vs. Notre Dame.

West at Portland, Ore.—UCLA vs. Montana and Arizona State vs. Nevada-Las Vegas.

This is how they did it:

—At Philadelphia, Kansas State upset Penn 69-62 and Syracuse shaded La Salle 87-83 in overtime.

—At Charlotte, N.C., North Carolina trounced New Mexico State 93-69 and Boston College downed Furman 82-76.

—At Tuscaloosa, Ala., Kentucky walloped Marquette 76-54 and Central Michigan edged Georgetown, D.C., 77-75.

—At Lexington, Ky., Indiana crushed Texas-El Paso 78-53 and Oregon State downed Middle Tennessee 78-67.

—At Lubbock, Tex., Cincinnati held off Texas A&M 87-79 and Maryland nipped Creighton 83-79.

—At Tulsa, Okla., Louisville whipped Rutgers 91-78 and Notre Dame beat Kansas 77-71.

—At Tempe, Ariz., Arizona State defeated Alabama 97-94 and Nevada-Las Vegas took San Diego State 90-80.

—At Pullman, Wash., Montana got by Utah State 69-63 and UCLA erupted with a 16-4 overtime burst that eliminated determined Michigan 103-91.

Although Indiana, 30-0, placed four men in double figures, it was the Hoosiers' sticky defense that put the clamps on UTEP. Steve Green and Quinn Buckner led a charge that turned a 29-24 lead just before halftime into a 60-36 rout with 9:17 left.

"There's no question that our defense is the most important part of our game," said Coach Bobby Knight. "It was tough for them to try to come from behind against us."

UTEP Coach Don Haskins said his Miners "went wrong when we missed the first easy lay-up. We have to hit all our shots in close... and we missed a bunch."

Marques Johnson and Richard Washington hit for six quick points in overtime as UCLA beat back Michigan. Regulation play ended at 87-all after Michigan's Wayne Britt hit two free throws with 1:23 remaining. UCLA, seeking its 10th national title in 12 years, scored six points in the first 1½ minutes of the overtime to ice the game.

The bitterest defeat was suffered by Georgetown, whose Jonathan Smith fired a desperation 30-foot shot at the buzzer—the score was tied at the time—and collided with Central Michigan's Leonard Drake, who promptly sank two free throws to win the game.

"It's a heck of a thing to come this far and have a referee's call decide a game," said Georgetown Coach John Thompson.

Louisville trailed Rutgers by as many as eight points in the early going—it was 46-44 at eight minutes left but Alabama got no closer until the final half-minute.

Chuckie Williams and Carl Gerlach scored 20 points apiece to lead Kansas State over 11th-ranked Penn. Kevin King's lay-up and two free throws each by said. "Cheating is so widespread that until now the odds were against anyone being caught because there were so few investigators. But the few who were caught did not get a stiff enough penalty to discourage anyone."

Without mentioning North Carolina State, which was placed on probation for recruiting violations involving David Thompson, Phelps said, "A school can cheat on a great player and get caught, but win the national championship before he is out of school."

"Now what kind of penalty is that? There are a lot of coaches who would take a year or two on probation in exchange for a national championship. The penalties must be more stiff."

"If the schools that I expect to be caught in the next few months are given the kind of penalties that will discourage cheating, then I think what's coming will be good for basketball."

The Notre Dame coach believes effective penalties would include suspending guilty coaches for four years or firing them, declaring involved players permanently ineligible, "or do whatever it takes to make people stop cheating."

Another of Phelps' proposals is that players, their parents or guardians and high school coaches sign an affidavit saying they understand the recruiting rules.

"A lot of them don't know the rules, and consequently they are unaware that some of the things that are done are illegal," Phelps said.

He believes the nation's moral climate now is conducive to getting the recruiting skeletons out of the closet.

"I don't know if it's the post-Watergate morality or what, but I believe people everywhere are looking for honesty," he said.

Phelps Predicts Scandal To Hit College Basketball

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — College basketball soon will be hit by a major recruiting scandal involving prestigious schools which "will be our Watergate," Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps predicts.

Phelps, whose No. 12-ranked Fighting Irish beat Kansas Saturday night in first-round NCAA Midwest Regional action, told Tulsa World sports editor Bill Connors that the NCAA has been hampered in investigations by a small staff.

North Carolina blew out New Mexico State with a 17-2 burst in a 5½-minute span early in the second half that opened a 66-47 bulge. Arizona State guards Lionel Hollins and Rudy White wrecked Alabama in the early going with stolen passes and scored 17 points apiece. The Sun Devils saw a 22-point spread dwindle to seven with

Nation's Top Four Clubs Still Aim For NCAA Title

By The Associated Press

Led by unbeaten Indiana... easily... and revenge-bent UCLA... which did it the hard way... the nation's top four teams are still in the running for college basketball's top prize—the National Collegiate championship.

Top-ranked Indiana, runner-up UCLA, third-rated Louisville and No. 4 Maryland came through Saturday with victories that sent them to the various NCAA regionals next Thursday and Saturday.

Joining them in the winner's circle were three other members of The Associated Press Top Ten—No. 6 Kentucky, seventh-ranked North Carolina and No. 8 Arizona State. The only Top Ten losers were No. 5 Marquette and No. 10 Alabama and they bowed to Kentucky and Arizona State respectively.

North Carolina State, last year's champion and the nation's ninth-ranked team, failed to win the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament and was not selected to defend its crown.

This is the line-up for the regionals, with the four eventual winners advancing to the finals at San Diego March 29-31.

East Regional at Providence, R.I.—North Carolina vs. Syracuse and Boston College vs. Kansas State.

Midwest at Dayton, Ohio—Indiana vs. Oregon State and Kentucky vs. Central Michigan.

Midwest at Las Cruces, N.M.—Louisville vs. Cincinnati and Maryland vs. Notre Dame.

West at Portland, Ore.—UCLA vs. Montana and Arizona State vs. Nevada-Las Vegas.

This is how they did it: —At Philadelphia, Kansas State upset Penn 69-62 and Syracuse shaded La Salle 87-83 in overtime.

—At Charlotte, N.C., North Carolina trounced New Mexico State 93-69 and Boston College downed Furman 82-76.

—At Tuscaloosa, Ala., Kentucky walloped Marquette 76-54 and Central Michigan edged Georgetown, D.C., 77-75.

—At Lexington, Ky., Indiana drubbed Texas-El Paso 78-53 and Oregon State downed Middle Tennessee 78-67.

—At Lubbock, Tex., Cincinnati held off Texas A&M 87-79 and Maryland nipped Creighton 83-79.

—At Tulsa, Okla., Louisville whipped Rutgers 91-78 and Notre Dame beat Kansas 77-71.

—At Tempe, Ariz., Arizona State defeated Alabama 97-94 and Nevada-Las Vegas took San Diego State 90-80.

—At Pullman, Wash., Montana got by Utah State 69-63 and UCLA erupted with a 16-4 overtime burst that eliminated determined Michigan 103-91.

Although Indiana, 30-0, placed four men in double figures, it was the Hoosiers' sticky defense that put the clamps on UTEP. Steve Green and Quinn Buckner led a charge that turned a 29-24 lead just before halftime into a 60-36 rout with 9:17 left.

"There's no question that our defense is the most important part of our game," said Coach Bobby Knight. "It was tough for them to try to come from behind against us."

UTEP Coach Don Haskins said his Miners "went wrong when we missed the first easy lay-up. We have to hit all our shots in close... and we missed a bunch."

Marques Johnson and Richard Washington hit for six quick points in overtime as UCLA beat back Michigan. Regulation play ended at 87-all after Michigan's Wayman Britt hit two free throws with 1:23 remaining. UCLA, seeking its 10th national title in 12 years, scored six points in the first 1½ minutes of the overtime to ice the game.

Adrian Dantley went on a scoring binge midway through the second half and paced Notre Dame over Kansas. Beginning with a lay-up with 10:49 left after Kansas had pulled with 48-46, Dantley scored 19 second-half points to finish with 33.

The bitterest defeat was suffered by Georgetown, whose Jonathan Smith fired a desperation 30-foot shot at the buzzer—the score was tied at the time—and collided with Central Michigan's Leonard Drake, who promptly sank two free throws to win the game.

halftime—but Allen Murphy hit three straight baskets to start the second half and the Cardinals were off and running. Junior Bridgeman took scoring honors with a career high 36 points.

Maryland relied on the outside shooting of John Lucas and freshman Brad Davis to overcome Creighton's zone defense. Lucas scored 19 points and Davis 14, a number coming from the top of the key against the zone. Doug Brookins, who scored 25 points, led a late charge that brought Creighton within 82-79, but Lucas clinched matters with a free throw with nine seconds to go.

Kentucky, led by Jimmy Dan Connor and Kevin Grevey, charged from behind at the outset of the second half and swamped Marquette. "Kentucky is a much better team than a lot of people think they are," said Marquette Coach Al McGuire.

North Carolina blew out New Mexico State with a 17-2 burst in a 5½-minute span early in the second half that opened a 66-47 bulge. Arizona State guards Lionel Hollins and Rudy White wrecked Alabama in the early going with stolen passes and scored 17 points apiece. The Sun Devils saw a 22-point spread dwindle to seven with eight minutes left but Alabama got no closer until the final half-minute.

Chuckie Williams and Carl

Gerlach scored 20 points apiece to lead Kansas State over 11th-ranked Penn. Kevin King's lay-up and two free throws each by Jim Lee and Ross Kindel in the final 37 seconds of overtime sparked Syracuse over La Salle.

Phelps Predicts Scandal To Hit College Basketball

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — College basketball soon will be hit by a major recruiting scandal involving prestigious schools which "will be our Watergate," Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps predicts.

"Things are going to come out that will shock a lot of people," the 33-year-old coach said. "I would not say what schools I think will be caught, but they include some prestigious schools in basketball."

Phelps, whose No. 12-ranked Fighting Irish beat Kansas Saturday night in first-round NCAA Midwest Regional action, told Tulsa World sports editor Bill Connors that the NCAA has been hampered in investigations by a small staff.

Although it is a distasteful prospect, Phelps thinks such a scandal might have cleansing benefits. The key, he thinks, is the severity of the penalties.

"Obviously, our system of penalties does not work," he said. "Cheating is so widespread that until now the odds were against anyone being caught because there were so few investigators. But the few who were caught did not get a stiff enough penalty to discourage anyone."

Without mentioning North Carolina State, which was placed on probation for recruiting violations involving David Thompson, Phelps said, "A school can cheat on a great player and get caught, but win the national championship before he is out of school."

"Now what kind of penalty is that? There are a lot of coaches who would take a year or two on probation in exchange for a national championship. The penalties must be more stiff."

"If the schools that I expect to be caught in the next few months are given the kind of penalties that will discourage cheating, then I think what's coming will be good for basketball." The Notre Dame coach believes effective penalties would include suspending guilty coaches for four years or firing them, declaring involved players permanently ineligible, "or do whatever it takes to make people stop cheating."

Another of Phelps' proposals is that players, their parents or guardians and high school coaches sign an affidavit saying they understand the recruiting rules.

"A lot of them don't know the rules, and consequently they are unaware that some of the things that are done are illegal," Phelps said.

He believes the nation's moral climate now is conducive to getting the recruiting skeletons out of the closet.

"I don't know if it's the post-Watergate morality or what, but I believe people everywhere are looking for honesty," he said.

Tough Questions Face NFL Owners, Officials

HONOLULU (AP) — National Football League owners and other top officials start tackling a series of tough questions Monday, ranging from players' demands to recent court decisions.

There's also the possibility of further league expansion. And a decision on the site of Super Bowl XI in 1977 must be decided at this five-day meeting.

Technically, the players' strike of 1974 was never settled. The walkout ended with an agreement for the pros to return for the remaining part of the exhibition slate and for the regular season.

Still, the players' and management's negotiators were an estimated $10 million apart in salary demands alone... and there were numerous demands covering standard player contract clauses which remain unresolved.

Court decisions, now being appealed, attack the NFL contracts and the so-called Rozelle Rule, under which teams losing players who play out their options must be compensated by the clubs which eventually sign those players. Without the rule pto into effect by Commissioner Pete Rozelle, it is feared the rich teams will get richer and the poor poorer and thus lose the balance under which the NFL became successful.

President Ralph Wilson of the Buffalo Bills asks: "When players can drift to more glamorous places for more money, would they stay in cities like Buffalo, Baltimore, Green Bay, Denver and a few other?"

He suggests a possibility of collective bargaining might be an answer with an overall salary budget and seniority system such as in other labor unions.

The NFL expands to 28 teams in 1976 with the addition of Seattle and Tampa, Fla. Phoenix and Memphis are other cities which have made bids for franchises.

Seven cities are expected to make presentations for the 1977 Super Bowl: Los Angeles, New Orleans, Miami, Dallas, Houston, Pasadena, Calif., and Montreal—the last a late entry. The winning city will be selected Tuesday.

A committee has already spent nearly a week studying proposed changes in playing rules. Jim Kensil, the league's executive director, said no announcements would be made until after the suggestions of this competition committee are acted upon in full session.

Under study have been such proposals as:

—Permitting a pass receiver to have only one foot inbounds, instead of two, in making receptions.

—Using a tee in kicking field goals and conversions.

—Not allowing more than 11 players in either offensive or defensive huddles.

—Spotting the ball at the scrimmage line instead of the 20-yard line following fourthdown incomplete passes into an end zone, and —Making pass interference a 15-yard penalty from the line of scrimmage rather than placing the ball at the point of the foul.

Electrical Workers Seek Vote Of NETV Employees

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) wants to become the exclusive bargaining agent for employees of the Nebraska Educational Television Commission (NETV).

IBEW attorneys have petitioned the State Court of Industrial Relations for an election on the question. The court has not ruled as yet.

The union has proposed two separate bargaining units at NETV, one to represent 14 employees in the production crew and another for the engineering crew numbering 36 employees.

Authorization cards signed by employees requesting an election have been submitted to the court. For the court to order the election, 30% of the employees in the proposed bargaining units must have signed the cards.

Within 90 days of the time the petition was filed.

Exclusive bargaining status gives the union the right to represent the employees in grievance procedures and in contract negotiations on wages and conditions of employment. Members of the bargaining unit would not be required to join the IBEW in order to be represented under state law.

In another matter before the court, efforts of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) to get a representation election among roughly 1,100 State Department of Roads employees are still alive.

The court has granted AFSCME a ten-day delay to get new authorization cards submitted in alphabetical order for verification.

Pending before the court is a motion to dismiss AFSCME's election petition on the grounds the authorization cards are stale. AFSCME's case was filed in December; however, the cards were signed in January, February and March of 1974.

Hence, the cards did not meet the so-called freshness rule which requires that the cards be signed within 90 days of the date of filing. The rule is intended to ensure that the employees who signed the cards are still eligible in the bargaining unit.

AFSCME asked to have the rule waived, but the court refused and forced AFSCME to resolicit.

The Nebraska Association of Public Employees (NAPE) has intervened in the case and is seeking a spot on the ballot if an election is ordered at the Roads Department.

Lancaster Could Take Control Of Mental Health Clinic July 1

If all the bugs can be worked out, the county will take over the Lincoln-Lancaster Mental Health Clinic by July 1.

Under the terms of last year's community services mental health bill, LB302, the clinic, a state agency since 1962, will come under county control.

But before the switch from state to county agency takes place, problems must be solved, according to County Commissioner Bruce Hamilton.

These areas include personnel matters, such as pay differences and transfer of retirement funds, transfer of a federal grant from the state to the local level and space problems. The agency is currently housed in three separate floors of the Sharp Building and needs a new location.

The clinic began as the Southeast Psychiatric Clinic in 1962. With a staff of about 50, the agency provides individual and group therapy, marriage counseling, vocational rehabilitation, a day care program for adults and post hospital care.

More local control over the clinic will also mean more county funding. Last year's $87,000 county funding for the Lincoln-Lancaster Mental Health Clinic is expected to jump to between $100,000 and $150,000 during the next fiscal year, according to Hamilton.

The law moving to local control is simply part of a nationwide movement toward community health programs as opposed to focusing on state institutions, said Dr. Charles Richardson, clinic director.

If problems are not ironed out by this summer, the 1973 law does provide for continued state operation for at least an additional year, Hamilton said.

Spacecraft Finishes Job, Relays Mercury Pictures

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Mariner 10 spacecraft successfully completed its four-hour fly-by of Mercury on Sunday, beaming back hundreds of pictures to provide mankind's closest look at the sun-scorched planet.

"We expect Mariner to die now," a spokesman at Jet Propulsion Laboratory here said, explaining that after nearly one billion miles in space the craft's altitude control fuel had been used up.

Without the fuel, Mariner 10 "can no longer face the sun and convert sunpower to energy" and will go into a permanent orbit around the sun, the spokesman said.

Dr. James Dunn, Mariner project manager, said the craft had gathered data while passing through Mercury's magnetosphere, the previously unknown force field that surrounds the sun's closest neighbor.

"We are getting real close-ups now, the closest pictures we've ever had. We should be able to see anything about the size of a football field," the spokesman said.

The photos sent back to earth from only 125 miles above Mercury's surface are the last effort of the battered spacecraft after traveling 950 million miles in space.

Scientists said they had not yet been able to analyze the newest photos or the information gathered in the magnetosphere.

Electrical Workers Seek Vote Of NE Employees

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) wants to become the exclusive bargaining agent for employees of the Nebraska Educational Television Commission (NETV).

IBEW attorneys have petitioned the State Court of Industrial Relations for an election on the question. The court has not ruled as yet.

The union has proposed two separate bargaining units at NETV, one to represent 14 employees in the production crew and another for the engineering crew numbering 36 employees.

Authorization cards signed by employees requesting an election have been submitted to the court. For the court to order the election, 30% of the employees in the proposed bargaining units must have signed the cards within 90 days of the time the petition was filed.

Exclusive bargaining status gives the union the right to represent the employees in grievance procedures and in contract negotiations on wages and conditions of employment. Members of the bargaining unit would not be required to join the IBEW in order to be represented under state law.

In another matter before the court, efforts of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) to get a representation election among roughly 1,100 State Department of Roads employees are still alive.

The court has granted AFSCME a ten-day delay to get new authorization cards submitted in alphabetical order for verification.

Pending before the court is a motion to dismiss AFSCME's election petition on the grounds the authorization cards are stale. AFSCME's case was filed in December; however, the cards were signed in January, February and March of 1974.

Hence, the cards did not meet the so-called freshness rule which requires that the cards be signed within 90 days of the date of filing. The rule is intended to ensure that the employees who signed the cards are still employed in the bargaining unit.

AFSCME asked to have the rule waived, but the court refused and forced AFSCME to resolicit.

The Nebraska Association of Public Employees (NAPE) has intervened in the case and is seeking a spot on the ballot if an election is ordered at the Roads Department.

Lancaster Could Take Control Of Mental Health Clinic July 1

If all the bugs can be worked out, the county will take over the Lincoln-Lancaster Mental Health Clinic by July 1.

Under the terms of last year's community services mental health bill, LB302, the clinic, a state agency since 1962, will come under county control.

But before the switch from state to county agency takes place, problems must be solved, according to County Commissioner Bruce Hamilton.

These areas include personnel matters, such as pay differences and transfer of retirement funds, transfer of a federal grant from the state to the local level and space problems. The agency is currently housed in three separate floors of the Sharp Building and needs a new location.

The clinic began as the Southeast Psychiatric Clinic in 1962. With a staff of about 50, the agency provides individual and group therapy, marriage counseling, vocational rehabilitation, a day care program for adults and post hospital care.

More local control over the clinic will also mean more county funding. Last year's $87,000 county funding for the Lincoln-Lancaster Mental Health Clinic is expected to jump to between $100,000 and $150,000 during the next fiscal year, according to Hamilton.

The law moving to local control is simply part of a nationwide movement toward community health programs as opposed to focusing on state institutions, said Dr. Charles Richardson, clinic director.

If problems are not ironed out by this summer, the 1973 law does provide for continued state operation for at least an additional year, Hamilton said.

Spacecraft Finishes Job, Relays Mercury Pictures

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Mariner 10 spacecraft successfully completed its four-hour fly-by of Mercury on Sunday, beaming back hundreds of pictures to provide mankind's closest look at the sun-scorched planet.

"We expect Mariner to die now," a spokesman at Jet Propulsion Laboratory here said, explaining that after nearly one billion miles in space the craft's altitude control fuel had been used up.

Without the fuel, Mariner 10 "can no longer face the sun and convert sunpower to energy" and will go into a permanent orbit around the sun, the spokesman said.

Dr. James Dunn, Mariner project manager, said the craft had gathered data while passing through Mercury's magnetosphere, the previously unknown force field that surrounds the sun's closest neighbor.

"We are getting real close-ups now, the closest pictures we've ever had. We should be able to see anything about the size of a football field," the spokesman said.

The photos sent back to earth from only 125 miles above Mercury's surface are the last effort of the battered spacecraft after traveling 950 million miles in space.

Scientists said they had not yet been able to analyze the newest photos or the information gathered in the magnetosphere.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast for Monday

LEO (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Involvement is keynoted — member of opposite sex is very much in picture. Financial picture comes into focus. You see situation in light of cold, factual material. You separate fantasy from what actually exists. There will be revisions — ultimately they are beneficial.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Lie low. Play game where other people do most of the talking. Your own cards should be dealt from close to the chest. Analyze reasons for recent happenings. Restless colleague wants to reveal something of importance. Try to make it easy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Pace should be moderate. Some relatives are in mood to do battle. This is merely a way of working off steam. However, it is no excuse for you to be a punching bag, emotional or otherwise. Straighten out dispute with family member. Make intelligent concession. Peace!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Young person may make demands. Before condemning, listen. There is way to bring sense out of nonsense. Key is to appeal to spiritual qualities. If this you do, reaction will be one of stunned self-realization, understanding. Money could be at heart of matters.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Steer clear of heavy traffic. You tend now to be impulsive, careless. Key is to utilize energy in getting ideas formulated — and on paper. Avoid people who drain you of energy — and then walk away. Stop giving up something of value for nothing.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Study Aquarius message for valid hint. Get rid of burden not rightly your own. You have ideas, plans, concepts which can be put to constructive use. Refuse to sell yourself short. Envious relative or neighbor should be ignored.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are an organizer, a good executive, an individual willing to accept responsibility. Cancer, Capricorn persons play important roles in your life. November could be an outstanding month this year. You change lifestyle in 1975 and there is talk of changing residence.

(Discover your love and money mates! Send birthdate (for our survey) and 75 cents to Omarr Astrology Secrets, The Lincoln Star, P.O. Box 111, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053. You'll find answers in Sydney Omarr's booklet, "Secret Hints for Men and Women.")

(© 1975, Los Angeles Times)

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Avoid trying to mix friendship and action — at risk of losing in both areas. Be realistic. Don't mix illusion with fact. You require crystal-clear picture. Pisces, Virgo persons play significant roles.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You can build on past contacts, accomplishments. Realize worth of older persons, of experience. You go through learning process. You grow. Cycle is high and you are going to make steady strides. Capricorn, Cancer persons are involved.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 6. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
